On Fog-Blanketed Great Lakes

Ten Dead in Ship Collision

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (UPI)—Two freighters collided in dense fog in the "crossroads of the Great Lakes" at the Straits of Mackinac Friday, sinking one of the ships within minutes, and leaving 10 men dead or missing.

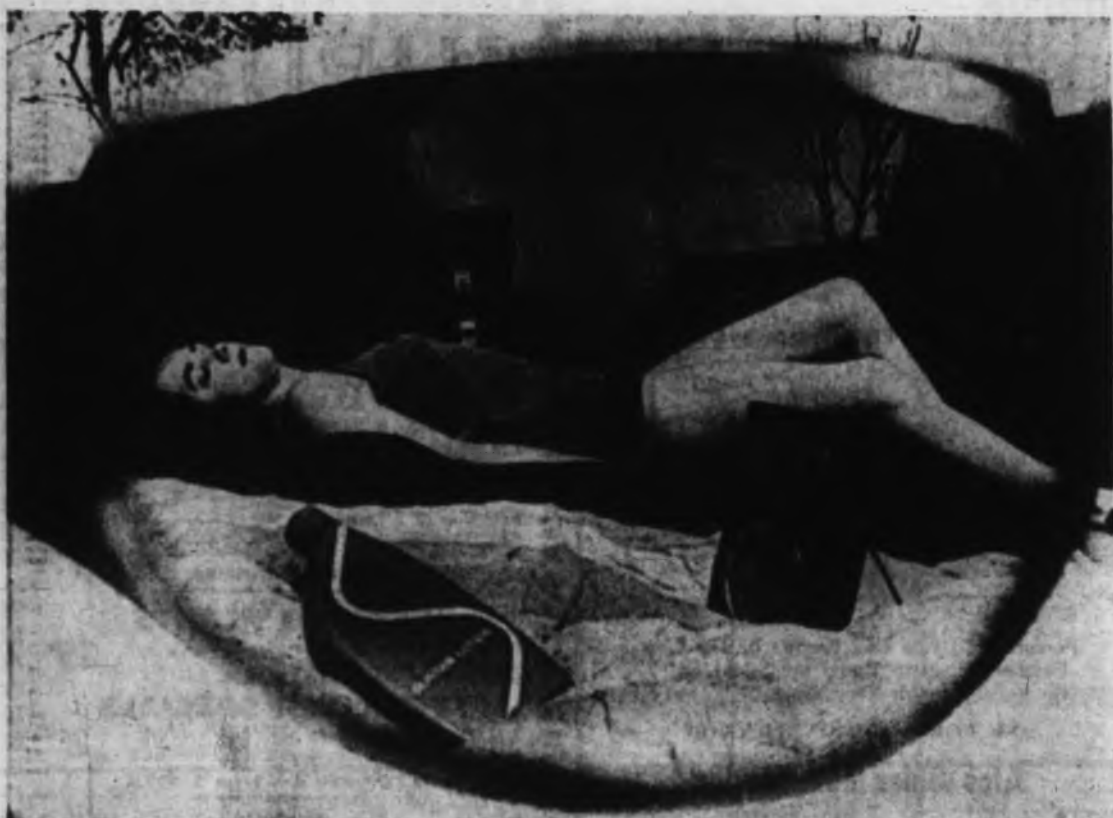

Three bodies were recovered. Seven others listed as missing were believed to have gone down with the ship.

Twenty-five crewmen from the sunken limestone freighter Cedarville were pulled from the water by a German vessel that was close to the scene, four of them suffering slight injuries. The other vessel, the Norwegian grain ship Tordalsfjord, limped safely to port. The Cedarville was operated by the Bradley Transportation Co., a division of U.S. Steel.

All of the rescued crewmen and the bodies of the known dead were brought to the old state ferry dock here aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw. They had been transferred to the Mackinaw from the German merchantman Weissenberg, which had pulled them from the choppy waters of the straits.

Liuzzo Murder Trial Deadlocked

Didn't Accept Testimony Say Hung-Jury Holdouts

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A young Ku Klux Klanman's murder trial in the night-riding slaying of a white woman civil rights demonstrator ended Friday with a jury deadlocked 10-2 for conviction.

In Hospital

Suffering an undisclosed ailment but in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital is Sebastian Cabot, well-known television personality who lives at Sidney between film and TV assignments.

The jury of white men was discharged when it reported its inability to reach a verdict at the end of a five-day trial.

The hung jury left undecided the fate of 21-year-old Collie Leroy Wilkins, accused of the March 25 shooting of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, 39, a Detroit mother of five.

TO SEEK RETRIAL
In Montgomery, Alabama Attorney-General Richmond Flowers said the state will seek Wilkins' retrial in the September court term.

The star state witness was Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., 34, who testified that he joined the Klan five years ago as an FBI informer.

Rowe said he rode with the three defendants on the March 25 slaying that ended in Mrs. Liuzzo's slaying.

BOUGHT ACQUITTAL
One of the two jurors who held out against conviction, Billy R. Chatham, a bookkeeper, said of his reasons for voting acquittal:

"I didn't accept his (Rowe's) testimony."

The other holdout, Dan Lee, a mechanic, told reporters, referring to Chatham:

"He and him pretty well are on the same side."

Smith

Rhodesian Sweep For Smith

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Ian Smith won the two-thirds majority he wanted in the Rhodesian general election Friday.

His government candidates swept all 70 seats on the mostly-white "A" roll of seats, assuring his Rhodesian Front a two-thirds majority in the 63-seat Parliament.

The election results appeared to strengthen Smith's hand greatly in his demand for independence for the British colony.

All but a few of the colony's 4,000,000 Negroes boycotted the election.

David Butler, the 38-year-old leader of the opposition Rhodesia Party, was among the defeated.

Back-Door Parley Unlikely

PARIS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada said Friday he thinks chances of a backdoor international conference on Viet Nam by means of a conference on Cambodia are washed up.

He said at a press conference that this may lead some nations to take up his original proposal for a conference on Laos as a means of opening talks on Viet Nam.

TALKS REJECTED
He added, however, that neither Communist North Viet Nam nor China has accepted any proposal so far for negotiation.

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist guerrillas launched their biggest attack of the year Thursday night, hitting a Catholic refugee camp run by "fighting priests" Father Nguyen Lou Hoa. Officials said Friday the toll was 68 dead, 77 wounded, and 30 missing.

In the air war, 65 U.S. air force jets bombed the Thanh Hoa highway and railroad bridge, 70 miles south of Hanoi. One jet was shot down as pilots reported "extremely heavy and accurate" anti-aircraft fire over the target. Fifty-six other air force planes bombed two small bridges and three barracks buildings.

In Saigon a five-member military tribunal imposed death sentences on two ranking South Vietnamese army officers who led an attempted coup d'etat Feb. 19.

Both Brig.-Gen. Lam Phat and Col. Phan Ngoc Theo, who are in hiding, were tried in absentia.

LBJ, France Heating Up

PARIS (Reuters)—French officials attributed the strong criticism of French foreign policy implied in President Johnson's trans-Atlantic television broadcast Friday night to possible recognition by Paris of the provisional Dominican government headed by Col.

Battle of Atlantic

Francisco Caamano Dengo. (See Page 5.)
The president's broadcast was regarded by French officials as the most direct and severe criticism of President de Gaulle's foreign policy ever expressed in the United States.

One official said the idea of uniting Europe without French participation, which seemed to be proposed by President Johnson, was impractical. He said there would be no united Europe without France.

U.S. policy in both the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam sparked a protest demonstration by about 1,000 students in the Left Bank quarter of Paris Friday night.

Organized by the French Communist Students Union, the demonstrators clashed with a group of right-wing youths before being dispersed.

Loyalists Field New Team

SHUFFLE AT TOP

SANTO DOMINGO (CP)—The three-man Dominican military junta opposed to the rebel regime of Col. Francisco Caamano Dengo resigned Friday night in what appeared to be a bid for popular support by anti-rebel forces.

The triumvirate gave way to a new civilian-military junta of five men calling itself a "government of national reconstruction." It is headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the military officers opposing Caamano's rebels.

Imbert quickly called a press conference and urged a peace effort to rebuild the country and national unity "regardless of political affiliation."

OTHER MEMBERS
The other members of the new junta are included Julio Pospigo, 61, a lawyer; Carlos Griselio Polanco, 51, a provincial governor under the deposed government of Donald Reid Cabral; Alejandro Zeller Cuba, 41, an engineer, and Col. Pedro B. Benoit, a holdover from the resigned three-man junta.

Imbert did not explain how or why the resignation of the former three-man junta came about or how the new group was formed.

The rebel radio promptly attacked the new junta.

NOT CONSULTED
The surprise move came as Caamano asserted his forces spoke for the Dominican Republic as its legitimate government.

Caamano told a press conference he had not been consulted about bringing an inter-American police force to Santo Domingo.

ADLAI STILL 'ROPED'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council for a second time Friday postponed a vote on Russia's resolution to condemn American intervention in the Dominican Republic and demand withdrawal of the U.S. forces.

Soviet delegate Nikolai Fedorenko, who continued a running battle of words with Adlai Stevenson of the U.S. through Friday's meeting, said he didn't object to the delay since it would leave Stevenson "with the rope around his neck a little longer."

Venezuelans: We'll Join

CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuelan Defense Minister Ramon Florencio Gomez announced Venezuela will send infantry marines to the Dominican Republic to be part of the Dominican Inter-American force.

Meanwhile, terrorists in Caracas sprayed a U.S.-owned supermarket with machinegun fire from a speeding car in a continuation of hit-run protests against U.S. policy.

Mexicans: We Won't

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Mexico will refuse to join in a Latin American peace force operation in the Dominican Republic and will ask the United States to withdraw its troops from the island, the foreign ministry said Friday.

Braves Hail of Bullets

Vancouver Man Dominican Hero

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says in a dispatch from Santo Domingo that George Edward Lynch, a 32-year-old Vancouver telephone engineer, dashed through a hail of bullets to rescue a dying U.S. marine.

The story by Gordon Donaldson said Mr. Lynch, in the Dominican Republic since 1958 working for the local telephone owned by B.C. Telephones, was caught in a clash between rebels and marines.

The dispatch says three marines were killed, two wounded and two taken prisoner by the rebels.

Lynch was trying to restore broken phone lines when a U.S. jeep and truck, sent to pick up medical supplies, strayed across the city into an ambush.

Mr. Donaldson quoted Lynch as saying: "There was a terrific noise and I got down against a wall away from the window. Then I went out into the street where I saw a lot of soldiers and armed civilians. They did not head me because I was a civilian."

After finding one boy, about 13, dead with a gaping wound in his neck, he went to another boy on a driveway with a bad wound in his back.

"I couldn't find any pulse, but I opened his shirt and found his heart still beating," he said.

Lynch picked the marine up on his shoulder and carried him around the building into a parking lot and put him on one of the plane company trucks.

"Then I got a Dominican driver to rush him out of the rebel zone to marine headquarters at the El Embajador Hotel."

The story said the marine was dead on arrival. Lynch is about the last Canadian left in Santo Domingo to try to get the shaky service going from its exchange in the very centre of rebel territory. The Telegram says.

Pearson on Election: I Don't Know When

MONTREAL (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night his government is moving ahead "but the next steps may lead to a general election."

He told the Quebec branch of the Liberal Federation of Canada:

"The date for that now and decisive stage, I can't reveal, because I don't know."

Minority status means the opposition can combine at any time and put the government out of office, he said.

Mr. Pearson paid tribute to his Quebec colleagues.

"I tell you tonight that I believe in the integrity and the honor and the patriotism of my cabinet colleagues from Quebec."

Another Junta

Domingo to supervise the uneasy ceasefire arranged by the Organization of American States.

Caamano said order would have been restored "a long time ago" in the civil war, now nearly two weeks old, if it had not been for U.S. intervention.

FRENCH RECOGNITION

The provisional president said he expected diplomatic recognition of his government from France within 24 hours and from other friendly nations soon. With him at the conference was his aide and translator Hector Artzy, who has been called a Communist by the U.S.

Caamano said there would be free elections in the republic in early 1967, near the end of his term. It was announced earlier this week that Caamano would fill out the term of ex-president Juan Bosch, deposed by a military coup in September, 1963.

NO INTERVENTION

The young provisional president said he does not want intervention by forces of "any nations" in the revolution country. He also strongly denied that there are any Communists in his insurgent movement.

Caamano, 32, met the press in his command headquarters in rebel territory, an area surrounded by more than 19,000 heavily equipped United States Marines and paratroopers.

CAAMANO AGAINST

Asked for his views on the creation of an inter-American force to keep the peace in the Dominican Republic, Caamano said:

"We propose that there should not be forces of any nation."

He said his government had not been consulted about a peace force by the Organization of American States peace mission when it was here. The OAS since agreed to form a peace-keeping force for this country. He did not say what official position his regime would take if such a force came to Santo Domingo.

Caamano said by United States officials to have promised Communist parties a decisive voice in his government if he holds power, insisted to reporters this is incorrect.

Earlier Friday, Caamano's government sharply denied American charges that it is Communist-influenced and announced it had sent messages to more than 30 world capitals asking for recognition.

Justin Cury, foreign minister in the provisional rebel government, told a press conference that reports a deal had been made with the Communists were "absurd."

RICH FAMILIES
"Caamano is a man of democratic background," he said, adding that most members of the provisional government come from rich, comfortable families.

He added he had no doubt one or more Communists had intervened in the rebel movement, but they were minority groups which could be controlled.

The capital remained tense after three shooting incidents which broke the ceasefire arranged by the OAS. The rebels have sworn to shoot any U.S. soldier found in their zone.

MARINE KILLED

One U.S. marine was killed, another reported dead and three wounded in fighting between rebel and U.S. forces Thursday.

Two North American newspaper men were wounded during the exchanges between the two sides. They are Al Burt, Latin American editor of the Miami Herald, and Doug Kennedy of Windsor, Ont. The Herald's chief photographer, Kennedy was reported in fair condition. Burt in good condition.

Court Indicates:

Responsibility For Sponges Up to Surgeons

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada indicated Friday that it believes doctors must take the responsibility if medical sponges or gauzes are left in the bodies of patients after an operation.

The indication came as the court reserved its decision in a damage suit for about $20,000 brought against Winnipeg doctor John H. McBeath as the result of a 1959 kidney operation.

REMOVED LATER

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Radcliffe claim that Dr. McBeath left a sponge or a piece of gauze in Mrs. Radcliffe's body and said she suffered ill health until it was removed in another operation by Dr. McBeath in 1961.

P. S. Morse, acting for Dr. McBeath, argued that occasionally sponges are left in the bodies of patients, but that if doctors take all precautions, they can not be held liable for court action. Operating room nurses kept count of sponges used in operations, he said, and doctors must rely on their count.

Mr. Justice J. R. Cartwright said that if the Supreme Court finds that the sponge was left in the 1959 operation, it will find Dr. McBeath liable to damages. Mr. Morse said his client

Lemieux Retires at 61

Deputy Chief Leaves RCMP

OTTAWA (CP)—Joseph Rudolphe Lemieux, 61, who was born in a police station and rose to the second-highest rank in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, has retired from the force.

Retirement of Deputy Commissioner Lemieux, who crowned his 35 years as a policeman by heading the biggest and most successful security job in the country's history—protecting the Queen in last year's royal visit—was announced Friday by Commissioner G. B. McClellan.

He was the senior of the force's two deputy commissioners and was in charge of operations, which includes all investigations relating to criminal matters and the internal security of Canada.

Among his trademarks in the force was a "fantastic" memory.

"Hard work, perseverance and a good memory" all go towards making a successful policeman, he said in an interview.

Son of the late Wilfred Lemieux, police chief of Valleyfield, Que., for 35 years, he was born on the second floor of that town's police station.

PROMOTED

Mr. Lemieux joined the preventive service of the national revenue department in 1930. In 1932, when its duties were absorbed by the RCMP, he became a Mountie. Eight years later he was promoted to officer rank and he rose to deputy commissioner of the 9,000-man force in 1960.

He was a sergeant when he arrested Camille Houde, long-time mayor of Montreal, for his active opposition to compulsory registration at the start of the Second World War.

GOOD FRIENDS

"I arrested him on the street as he was coming out of city hall. At the time, the mayor was afraid of being kidnapped by a certain element in Montreal and I was chosen to make the arrest because we knew each other."

"We always remained good friends."

On Honeymoon Voyage

Heiress Lost at Sea

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—An air search failed Friday to find the body of a honeymooning railroad heiress who disappeared from a small boat Thursday and is presumed drowned.

Superior Court Judge Thomas Yager, 47, said he "would give up my judgeship, everything I have if I could have my sweetheart back."

His 61-year-old bride of four days, Ellen Jeffers Yager, was presumed to have fallen from the bridge of their rented cabin cruiser en route from Avalon on Catalina Island to the mainland.

The honeymooners were alone on the 35-foot Carefree.

The judge said they left Avalon about 6:30 a.m. and about three-quarters of an hour later he went below deck to the bathroom. He left his wife on the bridge at the wheel.

In less than a half hour he returned to the deck and she was gone.

Judge Yager said every-thing was normal and his bride was in good spirits before he went below.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Seven wholesale meat executives, already under indictment for conspiracy in selling horsemeat as U.S.-inspected beef, face new charges of bribing an A & P supermarket meat buyer.

The arrests, which included that of an eighth man on a perjury charge, were announced by New York County District Attorney Frank Hogan.

The D.A.'s investigation, which began more than a year ago, led to the uncovering of frozen horsemeat in the Market Meat Co. plant in Queens. The company has since gone out of business.

Norman Lokietz, 46, formerly president of Market, was indicted on conspiracy charges along with six others.

Defects Can Follow Measles During Pregnancy, Not Always

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 31, have three-day measles and am a month pregnant. I took gamma-globulin, but it didn't do the job. What are the chances of having a normal baby?—MRS. A.B.

Gamma-globulin is quite helpful (when given early enough) in making regular measles milder. This is because 90 per cent or more of us have had measles so gamma-globulin, extracted from blood, can be expected to contain protective particles which developed in blood donors having had the disease.

ONE IN FIVE

But only about one person in five gets three-day measles (German measles) so there is much less chance that any given supply of gamma-globulin will contain antibodies against German measles.

In short, sometimes the best protection against the danger of getting it early in pregnancy.

True, German measles in the first three months can cause abnormalities and defects in babies. Can—not necessarily will.

HAZARD OF LIFE

The baby may be perfectly healthy. However, I must admit that some have serious defects—but this can happen without German measles. It is one of the hazards of life.

Certainly the risk from German measles is nothing like the tragic children who were born so deformed because of thalidomide. A defect is one thing; deformity is another.

By way of prevention of defects, I think there is much to be said in favor of older girls or young women (when not pregnant) hoping they WILL catch German measles, as the best protection against the danger of getting it early in pregnancy.

Dear Doctor: Some of the girls at the office say they have had three-day or German measles several times. I understood that for the most part you get them only once, and the same for regular measles.—K.K.

You are correct. Usually you get German measles only once. Some rare individuals do not produce antibodies, and so can have the disease more than once, but this is uncommon.

Some of the supposed cases of German measles aren't really that at all: mild regular measles, mild scarlet fever, a fairly recently recognized illness called "fifth disease" or Hungarian measles, all can produce a rash similar to German measles, and doubtless account for a good many of the reports of having had it "more than once."

Dancers, Models Acquitted

Tops Down Again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The bosoms of Broadway were bared again as bawdy North Beach celebrated the acquittal of its topless dancers and fashion models.

Two separate juries brought in the innocent verdicts Friday indicating nightclub owners and their busy showgirls of police charges of lewd conduct.

"Show time," bellowed colorful attorney Melvin Bell as a jury of eight men and four women found Off Broadway nightclub owner Voss Boreta and three of his employees innocent. They were nude model Yvonne d'Angers and bare bosom waitresses Kay Star and Eiraine Heimberg.

In another municipal courtroom downstairs, another jury brought in a similar verdict of innocent in the case of the Condor nightclub, its owners, and topless dancer Carol Dora, whose endowments include a 44-inch bust.

Both juries returned the verdicts after judges directed them to find the defendants innocent.

"No police officer can substitute his personal feelings of what is right or wrong,"

Judge Leo Friedman told the jury.

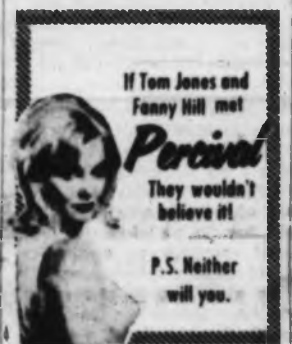

"The test is not what a couple of people feel. The test is what the people of San Francisco feel."

Police Inspector Thomas Fitzpatrick indicated that further attempts to stop the topless acts would probably not be forthcoming.

"I wouldn't think it was expedient to do anything at this point," he said.

San Francisco Mayor John Shelley, who ordered the raids two weeks ago, had no immediate comment.

Twister Death Toll 13

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The death toll mounted to 13 Friday as workers poked through the rubble of hundreds of homes shattered by tornadoes that slashed through a dozen Minneapolis suburbs.

More than 400 persons were injured by the vicious, twisting winds Thursday night, and authorities said damage ran into the millions of dollars.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag asked President Johnson to declare the debris-strewn communities, including fashionable suburbs on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, a disaster area.

The Small Business Administration in Washington promptly gave disaster designation to all sections of Minnesota suffering losses from twisters.

Two bodies were found in Mounds View Friday. Officials feared more might turn up.

Another covey of tornadoes swept a 100-mile stretch of western Oklahoma Thursday night. The victims of Thursday night's storm ranged from a three-month-old baby, whose body was found in a street, to an 84-year-old woman.

In 30 minutes of horror, men and women were sucked from their homes and hurled into yards and streets. Expensive homes were reduced to kindling; wood. Cars were tossed about like tennis balls.

Betwixt and Between

CANADIANS WILL note with some interest the somewhat cautious official British attitude toward the American military action in the Dominican Republic.

Though the statement on the present situation by Lord Caradon, the British delegate to the United Nations, was in distinct contrast to the outright anti-American pronouncements by the Soviet spokesman and to a lesser degree by the representatives of France and several other nations, it falls far short of awarding the Johnson administration full approbation for its present policy.

Indeed, Lord Caradon was most careful to avoid any mention of the U.S.-Dominican Republic incident other than to express his government's opinion that the American government had every right to use military force to protect its nationals in the strife-torn country.

There is, of course, an important reason for this apparent chariness.

If Britain gave its whole-hearted support to the White House view that the United States is completely justified in following whatever means it deems necessary to prevent a Communist seizure of any government within its sphere of interest, the Wilson government would be placing itself in an almost untenable position in present discussions now going on between it and its last remaining major colony in Africa.

How what the American government is trying to do in a republic in the West Indies relates to what Britain is attempting to do in a British colony in Central Africa makes an interesting—though inconclusive—story.

In the one case the United States government has advised the world that it is determined to prevent a Communist-leaning government from taking over a neighboring territory even if it means direct intervention in the domestic affairs of the country concerned.

In the other case, Britain has advised the world that it will not tolerate a unilateral declaration of independence by the present white-dominated government of Rhodesia. Its reasons are that such a move would initiate in Africa another white-supremacy government similar to that now in power in the Republic of South Africa which would at once be offensive to the highest ideals of democracy and to every other former British colony throughout the world.

However, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith has let it be known that he will continue to defy Britain on this point using among his arguments the belief that any African government which might succeed his own will almost certainly fall prey to Communist control. He justifies this stand by citing the Communist take-over or infiltration in several of the newly-created African independencies.

Thus does the United Kingdom government find itself caught betwixt and between what might be described as the desirability to adhere to the highest principles of democracy and the necessity of ensuring its continuance in Central Africa.

Prime Minister Wilson, who has already issued the white Rhodesian government a stern warning that Britain will immediately block all trade and aid to the colony if it carries out "this act of rebellion" would be hard put to attempt to equate such an attitude with an acceptance of the American stand that it is right to prevent the setting up of a Communist government in an area likely to endanger Western interests.

No wonder Lord Caradon speaks with a small voice on behalf of his country these days.

How Big Is Local?

EDUCATION MINISTER LESLIE PETERSON has disclosed that his department is studying the possibility of consolidating some school districts, with the betterment of education as the primary aim. The imbalance of economic resources between districts will soon become even more marked unless the borders are altered, he says, and transportation and communication improvements have erased old amalgamation problems in some areas.

It seems logical enough to suggest that where a district with a poor tax base and one with relative local wealth in the form of major industrial development exist side by side, combining them would remove some disparity of educational opportunity and accommodation. Further, a single administration in theory would be less costly than two, and one may also suspect that lurking in the background is the thought not only of better schooling but of savings to the provincial treasury.

But Mr. Peterson, confessing himself hesitant to tell the school board secretary-treasurers whom he was addressing that some of their jobs might be eliminated, has good reason to be hesitant in another respect about consolidating districts.

The principle on which the division of school costs between local property owners and the province is based, and is claimed by the government to be fair, is that the communities of B.C. through their boards exercise considerable local control over education.

Make many districts twice as large as they are now, and that principle will appear all the more an illusion.

Admirable Qualities

THE WEEK WHICH commenced with Battle of the Atlantic Sunday, May 2, has been marked across the nation to honor the members and the work of the Navy League of Canada.

This organization, which had its origin in Victoria 70 years ago, maintains the smart and efficient Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps from coast to coast, the Navy League Wrenettes, girls from 14 to 18, and the Navy League Cadets, boys from 12 to 14, who mostly go to the senior cadet group as soon as their ages justify the move.

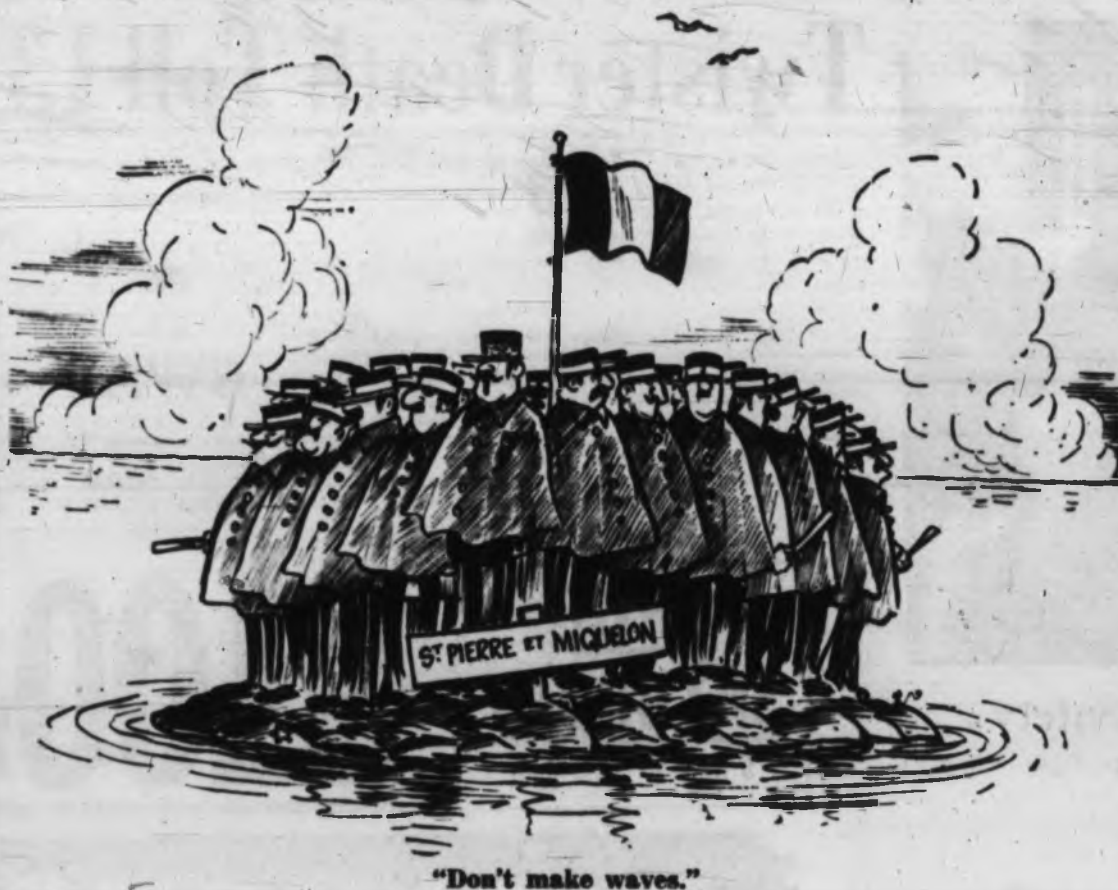

From RCSC Corps, ages 14 to 18, comes a steady stream of volunteers for the Royal Canadian Navy; and these boys are welcomed by the permanent service for they are among the very best recruits to the force.

There are seven cadet divisions on Vancouver Island, composing about 10 per cent of the total establishment in Canada. There are three Wrenette divisions, and three Navy League Cadet corps. Together they make up a group of nearly 1,000 enthusiastic young people who take an immense pride in their discipline, bearing, courtesy and achievement in subjects of nautical importance.

The thing that makes membership in all these groups so desirable is the emphasis their instructors place on citizenship and physical fitness.

These qualities are admirable in any age group; but when they are inculcated during the tender years they are more likely to endure.

The Navy League and its sponsored training divisions are making a most useful contribution to society, and in the process lend a little color to the scene.

Canada and the OAS

Decision Made More Difficult

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

UNFORTUNATELY 1965—which was designated by the United Nations as "International Co-operation Year"—gives little indication as yet that it will be such. Events in Viet Nam, the Dominican Republic, on the Indo-Pakistan border and the fighting between Malaysia and Indonesia make this fact only too clear.

For Canadians the trouble in the Dominican Republic is particularly significant. There the United States stepped in to rescue its own nationals and others, including Canadians. But at the same time it announced that the action was taken to prevent a second Cuba in the western hemisphere. This is now the main objective.

Evidently the Americans decided that they must move quickly and could not wait for consultation with the countries of Latin America. After the event they sought endorsement and troops from the Organization of American States, commonly known as OAS.

This is a formal alliance with all the nations in the western hemisphere, members except Canada, Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago. Headquarters is in Washington and each member nation has a permanent representative to the OAS with supporting staff. These ambassadors can meet on very short notice and action can be swift if there is agreement.

In the present case some of the leading Latin-American nations including Mexico, Chile, Venezuela and Uruguay obviously are very reluctant to intervene. There is little chance that troops from Latin America in any number will join the American marines and paratroopers serving in the stricken member nation.

These countries, for one reason or another, hold back. Probably some do not believe the spread of Communism can be halted in this way. In others the government of the day may fear a similar uprising at home if steps are taken against the Dominican Republic. Most of them no doubt prefer to leave this messy job to the United States.

All of which goes to show that the Organization of American States is a weak reed to lean on for the solution of difficult problems. In effect American military might is the dominant factor in the present situation.

The rebels trying to overthrow the Dominican government obviously cannot stand up to such force. In the end the government backed by the United States will win and the problem will change to one of finding local leaders the great majority of the people will follow.

This will be particularly difficult because for years the country was under the heel of a dictator—Generalissimo Trujillo—and members of his family. Few people have had experience in operating a government on a democratic basis. In addition, Cuba is sure to continue stirring up trouble at every opportunity.

Subversion from abroad is always insidious, hard to trace and harder to eradicate. In this questionable act the Communists are skilled. Probably the best method of dealing with it is to improve the lot of the people in the country being undermined. Another is to adopt a tough policy such as was done by the government of Malaysia. It wiped out the Communist guerrillas or drove them over the border.

The Americans may use both methods but to succeed in the long run they will require not only force but also strong support from the people of the Dominican Republic.

For Canada the recent events make a decision about joining the OAS even more difficult than it has been in the past. If we belonged now we would be expected by the United States to supply at least a token force to support her actions. Many Canadians would be against becoming so deeply involved.

If we are to join the OAS we must make it clear to Americans and Latin-Americans alike that we will reach our own decisions on the issues that arise and that we do not intend to adopt a policy of siding with any one nation or group of nations. Such a stand would get us into trouble from time to time but there is no point in joining the organization if we intend to tag along behind some other nation.

At the moment we can do little about the situation in the Dominican Republic. However, we have excellent contacts in the area with the Commonwealth Nations and the remaining colonies in the Caribbean. They could help to prevent the spread of Castroism and deserve all the aid we can give them.

It may well be that the best hope for a reduction of tension now rests with the nations of the Commonwealth. Their prime ministers meet in London next month. As a senior member Canada should take the lead in promoting a Commonwealth initiative to increase co-operation in the world while there is still time.

Washington Calling

Open to Exploitation

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHERE the next war will break out must be President Johnson's chief concern in view of the precedent of Viet Nam and now the Dominican Republic.

In the spring form-book are several conspicuous possibilities. Colombia is high on the Latin American list. Reports have reached officials here of significant Communist and Castroite infiltration which could mean an uprising and a threat to stable government.

The precedent is direct intervention by American forces. This has come about by such gradually phased stages in Southeast Asia, where nearly 40,000 Americans are now committed in Viet Nam, and so suddenly in the Caribbean with 15,000 Marines and paratroopers on the ground, that its significance is not yet understood.

The radical difference between the Johnson approach and previous policy is that no peace-keeping international force has been interposed. The president in his recent television statement described the effort to get the Organization of American States into place in Santo Domingo. But he was also saying, in effect, that the situation became so critical with "Communist conspirators" taking over the rebellion that immediate action was imperative. He was, therefore, describing an accomplished fact.

One consequence, as observers here are beginning to note with concern, is the advantage this man can give to a handful of Castroite conspirators. If they succeed in touching off an uprising where government control is shaky they can count on American troops coming in. Without the moral sanction of the OAS or the United Nations this can be made to look like the old-fashioned "Send in the Marines" operation of another While discreetly supporting American policy the British private get a certain wary satisfaction out of this country's dilemma. They remember 1964 and the thunders of American righteousness over the British-French-Israeli attempt to occupy Egypt to prevent President Gamal Abdel Nasser from nationalizing the Suez Canal and violating rights long held. That action brought a United Nations resolution calling off the attack with the then U.S. ambassador to the UN Henry Cabot Lodge, leading the charge.

At the same time Lodge led the denunciation of the Soviet Union for brutally suppressing the short-lived uprising in Hungary. Soviet tanks moved into Budapest as the UN stood helplessly by.

This contributed to the decline of confidence in the UN. Doubt and dissension have been increasingly the order of the day. The Johnson administration, by standing so rigidly on the demand that the French and the Soviet Union follow the strict letter of Article 19 on payment of back peace-keeping assessments, is assigned part of the blame for the present near-paralysis of the world organization.

Unless one-sided intervention is to be the rule an urgent need is to straighten out the UN and strengthen the Organization of American States. In his deeply moving interview on Face the Nation, Juan Bosch, from his exile in Puerto Rico, in effect wrote off the OAS because in his view it had failed so conspicuously in the Dominican crisis.

But surely there must be means and measures for making the organization more readily responsive and more responsible. The president named as American delegate to the OAS Ellsworth Bunker, a diplomat of wide experience and ability who had served with distinction in a number of difficult posts, is chairman of the OAS Council. Under his quiet leadership it should be possible to help bring about a new dimension of order-keeping for the hemisphere.

This would enlist American friends throughout the hemisphere who are today most fearful of "occupation" by the nations of the north.

A ready reserve broadly representative of the democratic nations of Latin America could as a force in being step in where alien extremists trained outside the hemisphere sought to bring down orderly government.

The hour is late and the precedent of one-sided intervention is open to exploitation by America's enemies everywhere. That is a propaganda handle that should be denied them.

An Opinion from Montreal

Provincial Accord

By GERARD PELLETIER

ROBERT Cliche, the Quebec leader of the New Democratic Party, has put forward a proposition that is not without interest. Briefly, it is this: "rather than wasting time on 'wordy quarrels with Ottawa'—he was referring to the debate on a province's rights in signing international treaties—Quebec would be far better off opening discussions with Ontario."

To what purpose?

To conclude a reciprocal agreement with the neighboring province under which the two provinces would undertake to treat their cultural minorities in the same way.

This, certainly, is an idea that should make its way through the thicket of recriminations, demands, quarrels, concessions and refusals of which confederal relations currently consists. So much that has been said on the bilingual theme for years now has been so banal that an idea that has any originality about it commands immediate attention.

Mr. Cliche's idea has the great merit of completely ignoring routines of thought. Why, for instance, do we always put the question in terms of an intervention by Ottawa, particularly when it is a matter, such as education, that is exclusively provincial? And, why, before discussing such matters, should the provinces wait for a meeting to be called by the central government?

Mr. Lesage understood this as far back as 1960 when he inaugurated inter-provincial conferences. The idea appealed and the provincial premiers have been meeting annually. But, up until now, nothing very dramatic has come out of the meetings. Not that there is any doubt as to the usefulness of these meetings, nor their long-term influence on Canadian politics; it is not usually the most immediate or spectacular successes that profoundly modify the evolution of a country. The interprovincialism initiated by Mr. Lesage constitutes certainly one of the most original and important political initiatives taken for years.

Immediately, however, results are not visible. It is probable, too, that the premiers have not yet attained that degree of cohesion that would permit them to approach the question of culture as such.

The initial contacts, nonetheless, have borne fruit. Quebec, for instance, has been able to contract an advantageous loan with British Columbia. But too many of the provinces maintain their reserve and look on the annual meetings as a simple way of gaining information, of taking soundings, without compromising themselves in any way. On the other hand, a small number of provinces give the impression of evolving more rapidly and Ontario heads this group.

One would have to be blind not to see that the neighboring province is asking itself serious questions as to the future of Canada. There is nothing surprising about this in that it is the richest of the English provinces and the one that would suffer the most from any breakdown of Confederation.

It is undeniable, too, that one meets in Toronto a growing number of people who no longer see the future of Canada in terms of British culture and interests, but as a country, dedicated by its history and the demands of our time, to the realization of an authentic cultural quality. This political concept, up until now restricted to a few intellectuals, seems to be spreading throughout Ontario society, including the political milieu. The tendency is still weak, hesitant and somewhat confused but it exists nonetheless.

Quebec must encourage this evolution with all the means at its disposal. The negotiation of a reciprocal accord would have the effect of forcing Ontario to take a stand. Even if the discussions did not come to a head, they would permit us to measure the extent of the evolution so that we could know whether it is an illusion or a reality.

Of course, the venture would face serious obstacles, as do all ventures that are off the beaten track. It would be necessary to invent all the terms of such an accord for never, up to now, have two provinces negotiated anything in cultural matters.

And, too, we would have to figure what trumps Quebec, which has always granted to its English minority not only the right but the financial means to realize its cultural growth, holds in its hand. In my opinion, it is the increasing demand for a bilingual Quebec that our province could bring up in bargaining for a complete acceptance of the "French Fact" in Ontario.

And how would the English minority in Quebec react to all this? Wouldn't the simple fact of announcing such talks look to them as if their acquired rights were at stake? Wouldn't the very understanding of such negotiations imply the possible loss of their privileges, and, if the talks ended in failure, the advent of a bilingual Quebec?

This objection, and others, without a doubt, would assail the project even before it was begun.

We would be quite wrong, though, to discard the idea out of hand. How many problems have been settled, ever since 1867, by the fact of an implicit accord between Ontario and Quebec? Questions that look thorny bring forth strong opposition from the two extremes of the country. But if Ontario can rally Quebec, the "centre" can make its point of view carry throughout the country.

Is it not of the question, then, that in 1965, Quebec, in its turn, could prevail upon Ontario to conclude an accord so that the two provinces, by working together, could win over the whole of Canada?

Lack of Encouragement

Our Readers' Views

To the editor of the Colonist: In view of the fact that there are so many of us who are interested in the welfare of our province, it is a pity that we are not more encouraged to express our views on matters of public interest.

I am writing to you today to express my disappointment in the lack of encouragement I receive from the public and the press in regard to the issue of the Archdeacon of Westminster, the Reverend Edward Carpenter, said he had been expelled by what he had heard and hoped it would encourage people to take action because it was right the British public should know the facts.

Human people who are animal lovers must realize the abominable cruelty in confining birds, which are constantly active in nature, in a tiny space where all activity is out of the question. Feather plucking is "cured" by debarking the birds.

What are Canadian conditions like? The matter should be investigated closely and appropriate action taken if it is necessary. Chickens need sunlight and fresh air and exercise as much as we do.

Willing Help

On behalf of the four Kiwanis Clubs in Greater Victoria, may I express sincere thanks to the many householders who were kind enough to provide overnight accommodation to the hundreds of young artists taking part last Saturday in the Fraser Valley Junior Tattoo.

The organizers of this fine group of young people are themselves Kiwanians, and a few weeks ago they asked the assistance of local Kiwanis Clubs in launching an appeal to local people for "bills." The committee formed to undertake this task is unanimous in acknowledging that its work was made much easier through the willing co-operation of all who were asked to help. I am sure that the children appreciated what was done for them, and that Victoria's reputation for hospitality has been enhanced.

ALAN U. POTTER,
Committee Chairman.

Dirty Sand

In the interests of health and hygiene I wish to protest the placing of open sand pits in many of our parks. They are often situated under trees and so never get a chance to dry out after rain, and to the best of my knowledge they are never covered at night, nor is the sand ever changed.

I shudder when I see small children playing in the sand when I think of all the insects that must crawl into them and the number of cats and dogs that are around. I do not wish to deprive children of their pleasure but I do think this is a health hazard we could well do without.

Theatre Prices

The McPherson Playhouse might show better returns financially if prices were lowered all round and old-age pensioners offered seats at prices they can afford during the early part of the week.

I am not one of them, but in the present seat prices are prohibitive.

If the first proposition, after careful consideration, is not deemed acceptable the second is an overdue "must".

Ottawa Reduces Down Payments

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Friday announced another move to bolster construction activity, in effect cutting drastically the downpayment required on houses built with National Housing Act loans.

The announcement was hailed by representatives of the Canadian Construction Association and the National House-Builders' Association currently in conference in Ottawa.

Citizenship Minister Nicholson, minister in charge of the federal government's housing program, announced the maximum NHA loan for all forms of residential construction other than apartments is raised to $18,000.

FOUR PER CENT

The ceiling previously was $14,000 on a three-bedroom house and $15,000 on a house with four or more bedrooms.

The effect of the announced change will be to cut the amount required for downpayments.

For example, a four-bedroom house with a lending value of $21,000 may now be purchased with a downpayment of $3,000, instead of $5,400, on an NHA mortgage at its current rate of 6 1/2 per cent interest.

A three-bedroom house with a lending value of $20,000 may now be purchased with a downpayment of $2,750 instead of $5,100.

'A BIG HELP'

C. B. Campbell of Hamilton, president of the National House-Builders' Association, said the announcement, coming on top of Thursday's introduction of legislation allowing the chartered banks to move into the mortgage-lending field, "makes this quite a successful week."

"It's a big help to builders across the country," and will make it possible for more people to buy houses under NHA loans at the 6 1/2 per cent interest rate instead of having to pay seven per cent or more for houses built under conventional mortgages.

Boatbuilding Skills for Arctic

Navy Training Eight 'Northerners'

By IAN SMITH

The navy doesn't just sail boats. It also teaches people to build them.

At least, the navy has assumed a tutorial role in the case of eight young men from the Northwest Territories who took up residence at HMCS Naden this week.

The group, which includes four Eskimos and three Indians, will be instructed in boat building and repair by navy experts. Jobs await them up north upon completion of their training.

In charge of the program is Lieut. Ray Langlois, and he says "It's a good course. We're going to give them training that will be useful to them."

They come from points scattered throughout the north—Inuvik, Snowdrift, Akavik, Fort McPherson—and they come eager to learn.

"They're a good group," said Lieut. Langlois, "and they've settled right in. Of course, it's all pretty new to them right now."

New... a city-dweller would have no idea.

Six of the eight had never been outside the Northwest Territories before.

"We're southerners to them," remarked Lieut. Langlois.

"They were surprised at the lights, the buildings, the crowds of people, even the size of trees. Up there any trees are small and twisted because of the wind and permafrost."

"One had never seen a live horse or cow before."

"The greenery surprised them, too. One of them mentioned 39 below when he left."

"It's a change, all right. Most of them had never seen TV."

The men range in age from 18 to 23, and they seem thoroughly pleased with their situation at Naden. They follow the navy routine in most things, but they have their own recreational director to help them plan their spare-time activities. They have full run of the naval sports and hobby facilities.

The first seven weeks will be spent acquainting them with the tools of the trade, starting off with basics and then working up into power equipment.

The next five weeks will go into boat repair, and then the final 14 weeks will be spent constructing a 21-foot boat from scratch.

And suppose they like it down here enough that they want to stay?

"Well," said Lieut. Langlois, "they're perfectly free to make up their own minds about that. The northern affairs department would be perfectly happy to have them stay or go back, whichever they desire."

"There's work waiting for them up north, but if they can find a spot here, there are no strings attached."

Lie Detector Tests Policemen

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Certain members of the Vancouver police force are being given lie detector tests as the investigation continues into possible wrong-doings by city policemen.

Senior officials Friday declined comment on results of the tests but said progress was being made in the inquiry into the February robbery of $1,200,000 in mutilated money from a Canadian Pacific Railway express warehouse.

Also under investigation within the force is the unsolved $106,000 robbery of a suburban bank in 1962 and the $13,000 holdup of another Greater Vancouver bank in January.

Alderman Tom Campbell, who has been pressing for more action in the unsolved crimes, said the police commission also is investigating a stolen television racket, a bail-bond racket operating out of the city jail, and claims by a mail girl operator who said she paid $20,000 for police protection.

He was a member of the Britannia branch of the Canadian Legion.

WIDOW SURVIVES

He is survived by his widow, Ruby; two sons, Don, of Grand Prairie, and Fellows, of Montreal; a daughter, Mrs. F. V. Hinch, of Victoria; three sisters; six grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

Interment in Hatley Memorial Gardens will follow the services, at which Archbishop Harold Sexton and Canon George Biddle will officiate.

Funeral services for Capt. Tasman B. T. Hewett, a veteran of both world wars, will be held at 3 p.m. Monday in St. John's Anglican Church.

Capt. Hewett, 3943 Telegraph Road, died suddenly Thursday night. He was 78.

Born in Tasmania, he came to Canada as a young man and served with the 50th Battalion in the First World War. He was paymaster at Edmonton army depot in the Second World War and came to Victoria in 1944.

Martin 'Happy'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Pearson assured the Commons Friday that External Affairs Minister Martin is having a "very happy visit in Paris," despite reports that a red-carpet welcome was pulled out from under him Thursday.

He said Martin indicated he was completely "satisfied with the welcoming arrangements."

'Pierce Iron Curtain'

Johnson Seeking East-West Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson appealed directly to the nations of Europe Friday to join the United States in piercing the Iron Curtain with East-West trade and building "a great civilization touching both Atlantic shores."

Johnson's television speech, on the 20th anniversary of the end of the Second World War in Europe, was seen and heard by millions on both sides of the Atlantic through the medium of the new Early Bird communications satellite.

INCREASE FLOW

The president said that after consulting U.S. allies in Europe he plans to recommend to Congress measures which would increase the flow of trade between the United States and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.

"By building bridges between the nations of Eastern Europe and the West we bring closer the day when Europe can be reconstituted within its wide historic boundaries," he said.

In an apparent slap at French President de Gaulle, Johnson criticized "policies of division" within the Atlantic community. He urged a final end to "narrow nationalism" in order to get on with this "urgent business" of the West.

"We must hasten the slow erosion of the Iron Curtain" through peaceful East-West trade.

"We must work for the reunification of Germany."

The Canadian Red Cross supplies hospitals in Canada with whole blood and vital blood products such as gamma globulin, fibrinogen, serum albumin, anti-hemophilic globulin and fresh frozen plasma.

- Freer and expanded trade across the Atlantic.
- A common effort by rich nations to aid the less developed parts of the world.
- More effective forms of common defence.

Snow Flow On Island No Problem

The report said the minimum temperature as of May 1 is below average on Vancouver Island and average on all other watersheds.

Satirists Win Plaudits

Folksy satire blossomed in a Victoria coffee house Friday night, with slams at everything from opera to blue grass music, from rock and roll to folk music.

The satirists were Donna Warner, Brent Tilcomb, and Trevor Velch, who form a Vancouver group called Three's a Crowd and are appearing this weekend at the New Secret.

They played and sang their humor to the laughter and applause of an enthusiastic crowd on opening night, during a first appearance in Victoria.

As Victorians applauded, one said: "I'm surprised they speak our language." Some one asked them if they knew Buri lives. "No."

China Cancels Japanese Deal

Pete, Gladys and Heathcliffe—three two-month-old ravens who found a home at Duncan zoo after falling out of nest at Westholme soon after birth—are fed by Mark Oyen, 4, son of zookeepers Mr. and Mrs. James Oyen. Tame ravens aren't Mark's only pets; he saved chicken from bunch intended as meals for zoo animals and named it Casper.—(Klaus Muentzer)

Message for Survival:

No Guilt in Leisure

Relax or perish. That's the philosophy of the future, say recreation experts meeting this week in Victoria.

About 300 members of the B.C. Recreation Association, and various sports groups, are spending five days in a $45,000 huddle at the Empress Hotel to remind themselves of this conviction and to find ways to convince the public it's true.

While regular meetings hammer out details of internal administration of the organization, the corridors resound with a recurring theme.

The world of tomorrow will be one of enforced leisure, the delegates agree.

If people learn how to use that leisure wisely and approach it with proper attitudes, the result will be new heights of personal satisfaction.

If they fail to throw off the old mental habits that make them feel guilty at taking time off to enjoy themselves, the result can be personal and social chaos, the recreationists say.

"People must give up their glorification of work and their guilt in leisure if they are to avoid problems in the future," says association president Don Cummings, of Coquitlam.

"Recreation isn't just an activity. It's a state of mind. The trouble is that many people are emotionally geared to the work-day world," he said.

They are in danger of extinction because of the as-yet-unmeasured effects of automation on society.

But Saturday they have to go back to their homes throughout B.C. and a tougher audience—the people they are trying to save, and the people who hold the public purse strings.

"Already the signs are here," said Mr. Cummings. "It is well known among industrialists, for example, that in the United States, 90 per cent of the light bulbs used in that massive country are made by 14 people—through automation."

They have no trouble convincing one another.

But Saturday they have to go back to their homes throughout B.C. and a tougher audience—the people they are trying to save, and the people who hold the public purse strings.

LeQuesne Named Fire Chief

In 13 years with the department, Mr. LeQuesne has been through the ranks—fireman, lieutenant, captain, deputy.

Passenger Ruled Guilty Of Dangerous Driving

WINNIPEG—The Manitoba Court of Appeal has ruled Terrence Kulbacki, 20, was guilty of dangerous driving although he was not driving when the offence occurred.

The court upheld a magistrate's conviction and fine levied after evidence showed Kulbacki was in the passenger seat of a vehicle travelling at more than 90 miles an hour. Driver of the car was a 16-year-old girl. Chief Justice C. C. Miller said Kulbacki was the owner of the vehicle and had a duty to ensure that it was driven in a safe manner.

New Uranium Upsurge?

Many Boomed,
Few Survived

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Only the strongest of the Canadian uranium companies survived the boom and bust of the 1960's uranium market, among them Gunbar, Denison and Rio Algom.

Others disappeared in mergers, and some turned their attentions to other mining enterprises.

The uranium boom of the late 1960s and 1970s will no doubt see many new companies springing up on the embers of ventures that lived and died in the first uranium boom.

PEACEFUL USES

Some of the old uranium companies have retained their interests and as the new boom develops, they will be restored to life.

The rekindled interest in uranium has been created by the accelerated progress being made in the peaceful uses of nuclear power.

France is dickering for a big contract with Denison, and nuclear generation of electric power is sufficiently advanced in many countries to indicate that the world demand for uranium will develop quicker than has been anticipated.

DELAYS SIGNING

France is hoping to conclude an agreement for the purchase of 100,000,000 pounds of uranium from Denison, but the price, plus France's reluctance to meet Canadian supervision of the end use of the metal is delaying the signing.

Denison, running out of its British contract this year, badly wants to conclude the deal, even if the price may give France a bargain.

Rio Algom's uranium sales contracts do not expire until the early 1970s and that firm is holding off in the hope that within the next few months the price for uranium will be much more attractive.

FAVORITE HAUNTS

Moontime prospectors are back in the favorite uranium haunts once again. Staking is booming in the Elliot Lake area of Ontario and in the northerly parts of Saskatchewan around Beaverlodge Lake, where earlier big strikes were made.

The new uranium boom may be months, even a couple of years away, but the market experts say that it's definitely on the way. That is why there has been so much "clever money" investment in stocks like Gunbar, Denison and Rio Algom in recent months.

How much is a voice worth?

That depends on who is speaking, and from where. On this special day, the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened; experiences recaptured. It is a time when togetherness can mean so much and, as always, at such little cost.

Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditure that have actually been reduced, over the years. And after 6 p.m. each evening (and all day Sunday), they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates for yourself in your telephone directory or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." For instance you can call from Vancouver to Prince George in the evening for $1.35; or from New Westminster to Calgary for $1.50; or from Victoria to Toronto for $2.35.*

It costs so little to discover how much these experiences mean—to you, and to those with whom you talk. Today, there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all its worth.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Mundito's Vincenzo Salvator returned to the world featherweight championship Friday night, knocking out previously unbeaten Raul Rojas of San Pedro, Calif., with 10 seconds remaining in the 15th and final round.

Referee Tommy Hart stepped in to stop the savage beating.

The crowd of 15,000 or more was in a state of frenzy in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

The 22-year-old Salvator, 124½, thus successfully defended for the first time the title he won last Sept. 26 when he dealt much the same type of defeat to Sugar Ramos in Mexico City.

"There was no knockdown. Just slipped it to move [Rojas] from getting more punishment," Hart said.

It was a bloody and savage fight after a rather tame first three rounds.

At the finish the champion's eye was almost shut, as he had a deep gash on his right

Play Taking Place Of Service

Another dramatic production by First United Church III-C5—The Faith Hawker—will take the place of the regular evening service this Sunday.

The play will be performed in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

"Religious drama used to hold a prominent place in the church and is now finding a spurt of renewed use," said play director Rob Nelson, director of Christian Education at First.

He feels the use of drama is one solution to the problem facing Protestant congregations of how to make services of worship relevant to the needs of the people.

Attitude to Sunday Changes

The Lord's Day Alliance, organized to maintain provisions of the Lord's Day Act of 1906, states in its annual report that the volume of complaints against violations has been diminishing. "Permissive laws on Sunday sports and entertainment" is given as one reason for "altered conditions and attitudes" by general secretary A. S. McGrath of Toronto. Then, too, the national organization is at present without regional representatives. The general secretary reported agitation for relaxed Sunday law continues in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, "particularly in the latter two."

Tribute to Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta and Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C. is implied in Mr. McGrath's statement that: "Government leaders, apparently from personal conviction as well as belief that public opinion does not strongly enough support acquiescence, have not been sympathetic to these requests." The United Church and Presbyterian Church were cited for support of Lord's Day observance. "The Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada has made reference to what it terms 'the weekend exodus.'"

COMMENDABLE

"This has to do with large numbers of people leaving city, town and village for resort areas where they relax and enjoy themselves—and this is commendable. "But too often these people fail to engage in worship—and that is deplorable."

FIND FELLOWSHIP

The board recommends that wherever church members may be at the weekend they make sure to identify themselves on Sunday with their own denomination by worshipping in the local church.

"This practice," said Mr. McGrath, "followed by larger numbers would do much for the people themselves and for the smaller churches in resort areas. It would, moreover, strengthen the place of Sunday in common esteem and practice."

REVIEW MADE

"The Presbyterian Church in Canada is conducting a Canada-wide review of the doctrine of the Lord's Day and has already incorporated into the report of its last General Assembly valuable papers on the subject."

The report states that future financial problems for the alliance are likely to become acute.

MORE DIFFICULT

"Keeping Sunday different from other days becomes more and more difficult."

However, "all in all, the Canadian Sunday retains enough of its long familiar character to bestow bountiful benefits upon the masses."

'Psychiatric Needs Not Known'

Homeless Lack Diagnosis

Social agencies are not making a proper psychiatric diagnosis of children who come into their care, says the treatment director of Severnside children's therapy unit.

"Less than one out of 10 children are given more than a cursory diagnosis," said James Mair, speaking on a panel discussion on foster children at a meeting of Newman Alumni Association in Victoria.

"This may be one cause of the mortality rate of foster homes," said Mr. Mair.

WRONG ATTITUDE

"A doctor would not do surgery without a diagnosis, but this is what we do when we place a child without a proper assessment."

Mr. Mair questioned the attitude of a community of 100,000 which cannot absorb 400 homeless children. "There is a tendency to look upon this as the social workers' problem. This is not our problem, it's your problem. We are just the paid functionaries of the public. These are your kids, not ours."

A men's gourmet contest is one of the highlights of a spring fair to be held from 2 to 5 p.m. today in Sooke—in the lower hall at Holy Trinity Anglican Church.

Entertainment, games and stalls of great variety have been arranged. "This is the only fund-raising drive of the year for this church, and a large attendance will be most welcome," said Rev. John Lancaster.

Crusader Coming to Breakfast

Doubters Are Invited

Billy Graham associate evangelist Leighton Ford will take time out from his current Vancouver Crusade for breakfast Tuesday morning with the clergy of Victoria.

Ministers from Duncan and Nanaimo will also join city ministers at 8:30 a.m. breakfast in the Crystal Ballroom after which Mr. Leighton will speak on The Strategic Role of Mass Evangelism.

EFFECTIVENESS

These ministers who may have their doubts about the effectiveness of mass evangelism are particularly invited," said Paul Leonard, now working in Victoria in preparation for the September 5 to 19 Ford Crusade in the Memorial Arena.

"I hope they come to hear what Leighton Ford has to say."

so they can give an objective evaluation."

This past week 6,000 people a night have been filling the Agrodome in Vancouver for Mr. Ford's Crusade, which will continue all next week.

Archbishop Harold E. Sexton announced at his church's synod this week that he hoped as many clergymen in the diocese as possible would attend the breakfast.

Reservations can be made by phoning 382-8201 at Crusade office, Room 290, Bentall Building, 1070 Douglas.

Victoria Music Festival

Highest Awards Given

By BERT BENNY

After 10 successful days of competition and display, the Victoria Music Festival closed its 1965 show last night with a Schools Honor Performance at Central Junior High.

There were 16 items on the program as well as a short interval devoted to the distribution of awards.

Of these items, eight ranged from elementary folk song choirs to senior high choruses. There were two bands—the Mount View High School band, just recently returned from the Northwest Territories, and St. Paul's Primary Kindergarten band.

Instrumentally also there was a string ensemble from the Schools Symphony orchestra who played the Jig from Holst's St. Paul's Suite. A brass quartette from Gordon Head Junior High played Cragged Pass by Johnson, the quartette being made up by Kahlen Wood, Jim Gayfer, David Gray and Ken Saunders.

The Grades 6 and 7 speech choir from Oaklands School provided The Old Woman and The Ghosts of the Buffalo.

Three excellent dance numbers were also recalled from previous classes: St. Louis College Marching Clog Dance, which was quite a sight to behold; Lansdowne Junior's Dalkeith Strathspey and Oak Bay Junior's Social Dance, which was originally awarded the high mark of 94.

SIGNIFICANT AWARDS

Several significant awards were also announced and distributed, those officiating being Miss Ulah B. Jacobson, Festival president, and Thomas Wellburn for the Kiwanis Awards.

Musical Art Society Award in string classes: Merin Naduriah.

The Edith Ellis Award (brass or woodwinds): Ian Franklin.

The J. F. K. English Scholarship: Norma McCurdy.

The Ethel James Award: Colin Bonneau.

The Bonif School of Fine Arts Scholarship: Velm Ka.

FESTIVAL AWARDS

Festival Awards: Carol Speller, accordion; Paul O'Connor, speech arts; Laura Groos, voice; Diane Hayward, strings; Larry Wither, brass; Stuart Calder, piano.

The Kiwanis Club Junior Bursary: Robert Baxter (brass).

The Kiwanis Club Senior Bursary: Kenneth Bertram (piano).

Thus ended another successful Festival but, before it is quite forgotten, a word of high commendation to the organizers.

Garden Notes

Plant the Dahlias

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMR

It is always something of a problem deciding just when to plant dahlia bulbs. On the one hand, dahlia topgrowth is terribly susceptible to frost damage, and we have had killing frosts as late as May 16 in my district. Some of the low-lying spots around town are real frost pockets, too, with occasional ground frosts even up to the end of May.

On the other hand, it is becoming increasingly difficult to hold back the dahlia tubers. Even when stored in really cool basements, they are sprouting strongly and, unless we can get them into the light or into the ground, these sprouts will be skinny and pale and useless, like the sprouts from a sack of potatoes in a too-warm basement.

Of the two hazards, frost is the easier to control. The tubers are perfectly safe underground, and the shoots are in danger only after they have emerged above ground. It isn't too difficult, if local ground frosts are forecast, to get out there in a hurry and pull a little soil over the emerging shoots with the hoe, or rover them overnight with cartons. My vote, therefore, is in favor of immediate planting.

This sprouting, remember, is taking place not only in the dahlia tubers stored in your basement, but also on the shelves and in the bins of the garden shops and centres. Once the bulbs are taken out of cold storage and placed on sale, it is just as difficult—perhaps more difficult—for the dealers to hold them back as it is for the home gardener. At this season of the year, a dahlia tuber goes downhill a little bit every day it sits in its plastic bag on the dealer's shelf. It is best, therefore, to get your dahlias purchased and planted as soon as possible.

I am a bit reluctant to recommend any specific varieties, for I remember so well the year when none of my recommendations was available from local dealers—the bulb shipments had become frost-bitten en route, and the dealers had to scratch around and stock up on whatever varieties they could pick up. With my fingers crossed, then, here are a few which have done well in our garden.

Croydon Ace is a giant in the informal decorative class, standing 4½ feet tall and bearing huge 12-inch blooms in rich sulphur yellow.

Arab Queen, my wife's favorite dahlia, is a lovely coral-pink and amber with a yellow centre, 4½ feet tall and with semi-cactus blooms a foot across.

Night Editor is a striking dahlia in the informal decorative class, 4 feet tall and with 11-inch blooms in royal purple with silver reverse.

Gerry Hoek, while not a large flower, is about as surefire as any tall dahlia you could grow and, for my money, better proportioned for cut-flower work than the giant mop heads. Standing 5 feet tall, the 5-inch waterily blooms are a clear, pure pink.

Miss Universe—not to be confused with the zinnia of the same name—will win some prizes this year unless I miss my guess. Making a 5-foot plant, the flowers are about 9 inches across and in a deep burnt orange shade, very striking. Gina Lombardi, another semi-cactus dahlia, is a deep silvery salmon with a bright yellow centre.

If you have room in your garden for a few novelties, I'd like to suggest that you try a few of the Ball dahlias this year. The flowers are not large—only 3 to 5 inches across—but they are perfectly round pom-poms, borne freely on 4-foot plants and becoming increasingly popular in floral arrangements. Some good ones are Jeep, wine tipped violet; Clara Clemens, deep red tipped white; Peppy, gold and pink edged plum red; Rosy Dawn, amber suffused with rose, and Daintiebell, a light rosy lavender.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

This Is Where We Came In

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Sometimes I think that moviemakers are more interested in seeing if lightning can strike twice than they are in producing something new and different.

What brings this to mind is the number of remarks of old movies that today's studios use as a crutch when their imaginations give out.

Producer Ross Hunter has just finished shooting on a remake of that old chestnut, Madame X. This time around Lana Turner is the long-suffering madame. I remember Ruth Chatterton in the original years ago. Women poured money into the box-office in order to weep with and for her. I'm not so sure they'll do the same for Lana.

But Ross had a great success with a remake a while back and undoubtedly is counting on a repeat. It was his version of The Magnificent Obsession in which Robert Taylor and Irene Dunne appeared originally, but in which he cast Rock Hudson and Jane Wyman. That picture made Rock a star and Ross a fortune.

He's evidently forgotten his luck with another old Irene Dunne weeper, Back Street. Ross did it again with Susan Hayward, and flopped.

I was talking with Van Heflin about this recently. Should a studio take a classic and remake it? Can they do it better than the original?

Van has just been signed as one of the stars in the remake of that John Ford classic western of 1939, Stagecoach, which made a star of an unknown, John Wayne, and won a spate of academy awards.

Van will play the role of the blustering sheriff which the late George Bancroft originated.

"I've seen the picture, naturally, but I certainly won't try to carbon Bancroft's performance in it," Van told me. "It's a risky thing at best. However, the role is so marvelous I couldn't resist doing it. It will give me a nice change of pace from my last one—Once A Thief."

"Incidentally, Ann-Margaret was in that with me, and she's also been signed for Stagecoach. She'll play the part Claire Trevor did in the original," he continued. I didn't ask Van in comment on this casting, but Claire was so marvelous, she is such a strong character, that I can't imagine Ann-Margaret, who is still a bit wet behind the ears when it comes to acting, even come close to her performance.

Others signed for the new Stagecoach are Bing Crosby and Robert Cummings. Evidently producer Martin Barkin wants to load it with names as increased insurance of success, but even that doesn't always work.

A prime example was the remake of Cleopatra with Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton and Rex Harrison. A fortune was lost on it. The only thing that picture made was Burton. But the original by that old master Cecil B. de Mille, with Claudette Colbert as the vamps of the Nile, made a fortune.

Metro had two bombs in one year, both of them remakes. Nothing further need be said about Marlon Brando in Mutiny on the Bounty—Marlon's acting bones have been picked dry on that one. But that studio also had another remake, The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. The first version, with Rudolph Valentino, won him fame and the studio fortune. The second, with the incredible casting of the ever-juvenile Glenn Ford as the sleek shiek, was written off as an $8,000,000 loss.

When Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher were married, they starred in their only film together, Bundle of Joy, which was a remake of an earlier Glenn Rogers picture, Bachelor Mother. This bundle was no joy at the box office, and shortly after it was finished, Debbie was also finished with Eddie.

Remember Manhattan's Of Human Bondage has really taken a beating. In the first version, Bette Davis and Leslie Howard were screen sensations. Then Eleanor Parker tried the Davis role in the early 40's, and flopped. Just this past year, Kim Novak and Laurence Harvey did it again. They would have done better reprinting the book and forgetting the picture. May it now rest in peace.

"Of course," Van pointed out, "there have been some remakes that were even bigger and better than the originals. Ben Hur is one example. We're hoping that Stagecoach will be another."

But I can recall many more that weren't. The Blue Angel with Mai Britt in the Marlene Dietrich role. King of Kings, with Jeff Hunter in a pallid portrayal of Christ, Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra in High Society, a singularly dull version of Philip Barry's wonderful The Philadelphia Story.

William Wyler, one of the greatest directional talents, took a picture he'd made 20 years before, The Children of the Hour, and ruined it. Even though he included in the new version the sensational theme of Lesbianism, it turned out to be curiously old-fashioned and just plain dull.

The fact that remakes have proven to be bombs at the box office for the most part does not seem to deter producers. Several new ones in addition to Stagecoach have been announced for early production.

Most farm children did their homework by kerosene lamp-light. One of their biggest pleasures was looking at the pictures in the mail order catalogue, but by late spring there wasn't much fun left—because most of the pages were gone.

A child who interrupted his elders was sternly warned, "Don't get too big for your britches."

New Site Sought For Trial

An application will be made in Supreme Court in Vancouver Wednesday for a change of venue for the new trial of convicted rapist Larry Kanester, his lawyer said Friday.

The lawyer, Donald Greenfield of Vancouver, said he is confident the application will be granted.

If it is, he expects the trial to be held in Vancouver, he said.

Last month Mr. Greenfield announced he does not want Kanester tried again in Victoria and he was applying for a change of venue.

PUBLICITY CITED

He was doing so, he said, "because of publicity in the press."

Kanester, 26, was convicted here last year of the January, 1964 rape of two University of Victoria co-eds and sentenced in two consecutive 10-year terms in penitentiary.

Last April 9, B.C. Appeal Court ordered a new trial, ruling the trial judge had not put the defence case to the jury; had wrongly told the jury certain matters might have been corroborated and had failed to define corroboration to the jury.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: What's with parents anyway—don't they remember when they were kids?

Why do they want to spare their children every hardship? We all have to face life some times, so why don't they let us find out for ourselves? Teenagers want to learn from experience and not be protected against everything.

I am 26 and my folks treat me like an infant. If I get into a jam and leave myself up it should be MY problem. We only live once and I want to get everything out of life I can. I want to look back at all the fun I had and not remember my youth as a time when I couldn't do anything.

Is it wrong to go where the other kids my age go, and do what they do?—U. H. S. STUDENT.

Dear Student: Where do the other kids go? And what do they do? If they go to dives where they can get liquor you should NOT go there. If they are sniffing glue, or using goofballs, or getting drunk, you should NOT be doing what they are doing.

Certain things are best learned first hand, but only a fool would jump off a cliff because he wanted to learn, first-hand, what is at the bottom.

You say if you get loused up that's YOUR problem. I have news for you. It's your parents' problem, too, because they are responsible for you. If your parents let you do all the things you wanted to do when you were three years old the odds are you wouldn't be alive to write to me today.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please rush the name and address of the woman whose signature was "Miserable"? She described herself as in her middle thirties, attractive, a successful career woman with good clothes, a car, money in the bank, and dying to get married. She said her confident front and smiling face was a facade, and that she would happily trade places with the wives who complain about their husbands' bum jokes and cigarette ashes on the floor.

I'd like to reach this woman at once and tell her she can have my husband—C.O.D. He'd be delighted to meet her, too, because he's been running around with an aging run-pot. The career girl sounds like a great improvement.

If the career girl is smart, however, she will stick to her career and stop asking for trouble. I traded an interesting life for a broken-down washing machine, unpaid bills and an irresponsible house.—DUMB ME.

Dear You: I was surprised by

The Queen Invites 9,000 Women To Tea at Buckingham Palace

By MARGARET SAVILE

LONDON (UPI)—It is being discreetly whispered that Prince Philip would be happy to accept an important out-of-town engagement May 31 because his wife, Queen Elizabeth, has invited 9,000 women to tea.

The party will be the biggest ever held in the gardens at Buckingham Palace and the six gardeners are pale at the thought of 9,000 pairs of high heels digging into the ancient lawns they tend so carefully.

Gentlemen equestrians and footmen at the palace all wish they had outside dates too, and are wandering apprehensively who will be on the duty rota for that day.

The guests are the Queen's fellow members of the Women's Institute, which is celebrating its golden jubilee this month.

The idea of a circle of local countrywomen, friendly and on equal terms, meeting once a month for mutual help and tea was born 50 years ago in Canada. It quickly crossed the Atlantic and today the WI, as it is universally known, is the largest women's organization in Britain with great social work to its credit.

Queen Elizabeth is a member of the local WI branch at Sandringham, her country home in eastern England. During her stay there she always attends a WI meeting at the village hall, where she joins in singing the hymn Jerusalem, discusses matters of local interests, listens to speakers or watches demonstrations, and sits down to a cup of tea and a cake with other members.

One invitation to the palace tea party was sent to each WI branch in Britain. The Queen instructed the branch members should cast ballots for it so that everyone would have an equal chance of attending.

Other members will come from the Commonwealth countries.

The Queen Mother, Elizabeth, also will be there. Like her daughter, she belongs to the Sandringham branch and has been its president. She said she enjoyed banging the gavel when she was in charge.

The Queen Mother opens a big jubilee meeting in London in May at the Royal Albert Hall, flying specially from Scotland to do so.

There is also a London exhibition of members' crafts, opened by the Duchess of Gloucester, who belongs to the local branch near her country home of Barrwell Manor in Northamptonshire.

Princess Marina, Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent are members of the WI at Iver in Buckinghamshire.

The WI always gives flowers and a bond to members when they have a child, and this is what Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent received when they had their babies last year. The £2.80 government bonds go in to a sort of lottery which has prizes of up to $14,000.

When the Queen gave birth to Prince Edward last year, she duly got her flowers but no premium bond. Instead she got a hand-knitted woolly jacket for him.

Bride's Wedding Gown Designed by Mother

Gordon United Church at Langford was the setting for the double wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Sheila May Middleton and Mr. Victor Popadynac.

Rev. William Van Druten officiated at the wedding for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Middleton, 3420 Luxton Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Popadynac, 2222 Deville Road. The church choir sang O Promise Me, during the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the petite, fair-haired bride chose a floor-length gown of nylon sheer over tulle which was made by her mother. Chantilly lace enhanced the front of the bouffant skirt and hemline. Matching lace, started with tiny pearls, highlighted the sweetheart neckline of the fitted bodice.

In keeping with tradition of "something old" and "something borrowed" the bride wore an heirloom brooch of rubies and gold filigree belonging to A. Heiliger. Her shoulder-length, lace-trimmed veil misted from a white rose headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Full-length, bell-skirted gowns of pink crystal charm were the choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Don Kendall and bridesmaids, the Misses Sandra Chidlow and Jacqueline Russell. Headpieces were self-fabric flowers edged with tulle and they carried bouquets of pink gladioli.

Joan Bassett was flower girl for her cousin in a similar frock and headpiece. She carried a basket of pink gladioli. Ringbearer, Douglas Drummond, carried the rings on a lace-covered cushion.

Mr. Mel Middleton, the bride's brother, was best man. Usher-ing guests to their pews were Mr. Alec Chidlow and Mr. Dwayne Weber, brother of the groom.

A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother centred the head table for the reception which followed in the Legion Hall, Station Street. A miniature bride and groom topped the cake. Pink and white flowers completed decorations.

Mr. Gordon Bergstrom proposed the toast to the bride. Following a honeymoon trip to Saskatchewan, the newlyweds will make their home at 216 Laquille Road, Langford. For travelling, the bride chose a pink suit, highlighted with white accessories. White camellias on corsage completed the outfit.

LOUES dit: "Give mamma a special treat, a cake for her day." Strawberry, Boston Cream pies, Strawberry tarts.

MacLaren Chieftain On First Trip West

By DOROTHY WROTONOWSKI

I ask, how does the hereditary head of the House of MacLaren of Invermay and of the Barons House of Wester, Invermay, get away with the spelling of her own name with a 'Mc'?

For that is the way Dr. Janet McLaren, who holds the above title, spells her own name.

The Canadian influence is the probable explanation.

It was James McLaren, son of the famed Donald McLaren, who was called patriarch of the group that migrated to Canada in 1803.

His father, one of the few chieftains to survive the disaster of Culloden, was taken prisoner by the English.

On the way to Carlisle he made a break for freedom by running down a bank into the bog of Devil's Beef tub at Moffat.

He sank in the bog and evaded his captors but didn't live long to enjoy his freedom. He died not too long after from pneumonia.

When his eldest son came to Canada, for whom Dr. Janet is directly descended, many more MacLarens came with him. They settled in Prince Edward Island.

The present chieftain of the clan lived in Charlottetown until going to Scotland where she received her medical degree from Edinburgh University.

Now she has a "very busy rural practice" and lives in Dunning, a place of historical interest, in Perthshire.

One day, three years back, Donald McLaren of MacLaren, chief of the main clan, went sailing on MacLaren and arrived at Janet's home.

Naturally they talked of Janet's Canadian background and pretty soon, the chief stated emphatically, "You MUST be of Invermay." And he started the ball rolling in the proper places.

It did not take very long to establish Dr. Janet's right to the title and last year the Scottish Court, of the Lord Lyon gave her the charter, complete with coat of arms.

Dr. Janet and her mother, Mrs. William McLaren, arrived here Thursday evening on their first trip west. They are staying with Mrs. McLaren's cousin, Mrs. Robert Green, on Lansdowne.

We were sitting by the pool in the beautiful garden at the Green home and the visitors were genuinely charmed by everything they had seen so far.

"Those beautiful white-capped mountains—the gardens, heavenly, just gorgeous." And the swallows skimming over the pool in the brilliant sunshine were "much earlier than at home."

The McLaren left Greenock in daylight and flew "into the sun" all the way west. Ice breaking in Hudson's Bay and the snow-capped Rockies were sights they are not likely to forget.

That the airline captain who brought them on the last lap of their journey from Winnipeg was named McLaren, they thought quite fitting.

Mrs. Green has a busy week planned for her Scottish relatives but yesterday morning they were really relaxing.

They will visit relatives in Prince Edward Island before returning to Scotland.

Bride Carries Heirloom Bible

An heirloom Bible originally carried by the bride's grandmother at her own wedding was "something old" for Margaret Jean Akins when she exchanged marriage vows with Denis Anthony Cliff recently. The Bible was topped with white gardenias and roses.

The bride wore an empire-line gown of appliqued brocade, styled slightly on train. The bodice featured a jewel neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her three-tier chapel-length veil of illusion net misted from a coronet of pearls.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. John W. Akins, 2535 Shearwater Street, and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cliff, 833 Williams Street. Mr. Akins gave his daughter in marriage.

Baskets of white stocks and snapdragons decorated St. Aidan's United Church for the ceremony at which Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiated.

Snoring

Gentle Dig Permissible

LONDON (UPI) — Madam, I repeat, it must not be overdone. If your husband snores it is perfectly legal to dig him in the ribs.

But do it gently. Too much force might constitute grounds for divorce.

The authority for this ruling on one of the age-old problems of marriage is Mr. Justice Kermanski, longest-serving judge in the British divorce court.

Discussing the "interesting and delicate question" of the snoring partner he said, "The temporary use of an elbow, I should think, is more often resorted to but no more force should be used than is necessary."

"I am inclined to think that is perhaps as efficacious a method of stopping a spouse from snoring as any other. But

Hotel No Place To Preserve London History

By ROBIN JEFFREY

LONDON—Our tardiness was entirely responsible for our hotel difficulties here. When you arrive late you can't expect the best. And we were late—by about 150 years.

After consulting one of the popular travel guides last winter, we booked at a "private hotel" described by an American woman in the guidebook as a place "which we are anxious to share with you and other travelling Americans." In the same generous vein, she might have given a light to Joan of Arc at the stake.

Our inquiries brought to Victoria by air mail an impressively printed folder outlining the numerous advantages of this private hotel.

It was centrally located in a long line of Georgian houses.

FOAM MATTRESSES

It served "macks" at any time as well as providing breakfast.

It had foam mattresses.

It had a little bar for guests' sightseeing.

It had just been redecorated.

DISCONTINUED

And this sounded very pleasant until we arrived rather bedraggled on the morning of April 30.

Centrally located and Georgian it unquestionably is. It dates from George III.

"Snacks," however, have been discontinued because there is an all-night Italian restaurant around the corner.

The foam mattresses are so sunny and friendly that after snoring a foot or two they suddenly and completely surround you.

TOP OF HOUSE

The little bar has not made an appearance.

Redecorating, to the critical eye, has consisted of refurbishing the small entrance hallway which can be seen from the street.

The first room we were shown was at the top of the house—up eight flights of narrow, twisting, poorly lit stairs. The room itself was about 10 feet by three with two single beds.

YOU AMERICANS

When we told our host that this would not do, he replied, "Dear me, you Americans always want showerbaths and things."

Finally he showed us something a little lower—in height. Since we had booked and made a deposit, it had to be satisfactory.

The gas fireplace, however, touches one of the beds—4½ is the only way the bed will fit.

The sheets have that soft, mummy quality and many patches. One has an eight-inch (we measured it) hole.

TWO DAYS TO GO

The two very thin, very small towels which were in the room when we arrived four days ago are still here although one ripped in half during a neck-drying operation.

But there are only two days to go. Then we move a block down the street to a smart hotel with TV and elevators which charges only five shillings (70 cents) a night more. It has a lounge and writing room. We have nothing but our rooms.

Robin Jeffrey, an undergraduate of University of Victoria, and frequently contributor to the Daily Colonist sports pages, is currently on a European tour. His impressions and comments about places he sees and people he meets will appear from time to time in our travel section.

In the past few days we have discovered many comfortable and inexpensive places to stay. But you must see the rooms. Brochures and even lobbies can be misleading.

And being misled is where we came in.

Fixed Price Meals Return to France

PARIS (Reuters) — Tourists in France this summer can expect to find many restaurants back to the welcome old system of the moderate fixed-price meal, including all the trimmings.

Officials of the French National Union of Restaurants report that 10,000 of their members, representing at least 40 per cent of the country's 50,000 restaurants, have accepted a government-sponsored plan for adoption of fixed-price menus.

In a move to keep down prices and promote tourism, the finance ministry pledged to free menus from a price-freeze clamped on last November.

Such meals would have to include hors d'oeuvre, meat and vegetables and dessert or cheese, with wine and service included in the price, and this must be plainly displayed at the door.

Saigon Glitters Despite War

Pearl of East

Saigon (AP) — The worldly residents of Saigon amaze foreigners by living as if they couldn't care less about the bitter Viet Nam war now raging literally at the city's doorstep.

The dancing hostesses of Air Viet Nam still charm disembarking passengers with a smiling "I hope you have a nice time in Saigon."

POLYGLOT CITY

Through 25 years of more or less continual war, Saigon has grown irrepressibly from a bicycle-powered French colonial capital into a polyglot modern city.

By night, it is a glittering splash of neon in the dull copper setting of the shadowy Saigon River.

WINE GRILLS

Terrorist bombs tossed from motor scooters have driven indoors the sidewalk cafes so favored by the French. Wire grills now protect bars and restaurants and life goes joyously on.

The lengthy wine lists in plush restaurants have shortened, but the basic supply is abundant.

U.S. officers, with .45-caliber pistols dangling from their belts, can be seen daily savoring a delicate poultry salad—washing down, perhaps, a succulent lobster or a tasty trout with almonds.

U.S. soldiers have slipped easily into the roles once played by French soldiers (and, to a lesser but equally enthusiastic degree, by the Japanese).

The Americans are also plumb targets for a thriving underworld of sneak-thieves and pickpockets, frequently working with some of the city's strikingly beautiful prostitutes.

Despite the poverty and vice, Saigon deserves its title as Pearl of the East. It is, in many ways, a beautiful city, despite the barbed wire barricades, the military posts and jet bombers screaming overhead.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

The main streets—Rue Pasteur, The Tudu, Le Loi—are graced with strikingly beautiful women wearing the Vietnamese ao-dai, silk pantaloons, with a tight-waisted, flowing gown descending in two fluttering panels. A high-heeled Vietnamese woman, with long, black hair and ao-dai waisted by a tropical breeze—that is a sight for artists.

'Lizzie' Scheduled For Facelifting

GLASGOW, Scotland (CNS) — The world's largest liner is coming home for a facelifting in a bid to capture the growing luxury trade of thousands of sea-going vacationers to the Bahamas and elsewhere.

Later this year the $1,000-ton Queen Elizabeth is due to sail up the Clyde, where she was built.

Using a new $15,000,000 dry dock, "The Lizzie" will undergo a $4,000,000 refit to give her the most modern facilities. Her owners want her to be able to compete with the new luxury cruise liners, mainly of French and Italian origin.

Twenty-five hundred joiners, plumbers, painters and electricians will work on the Queen

Elizabeth over a period of three months.

The liner has recently been doing part-time service between New York and the Bahamas, while her sister ship, the Queen Mary (also built here on the Clyde) has been visiting Las Palmas in the Canary Islands.

"Do you have any information on camping in Europe?"

I've never done this. And reader reports are puzzling. Some people have found it excellent. But last week I had a letter from an American woman who lives in Thailand (not an extremely clean country) who found the camps "incredibly filthy." Her description would put you off camping in Europe forever.

Camps I've seen just passing through in France, Germany and Switzerland looked very nice. But then, I never lived in them.

I'm sure that camping is much cheaper — people who've done it quote very low daily costs. The price of road travel for a family, in Europe or in North America, is high. The only way to beat it is to camp.

"We have heard the European coffee is poor quality. Should we carry our own instant?"

You can buy our brands of instant coffee all over Europe. Tourist hotels usually have it on the table. Or ask for it.

"Appreciate any advice on getting most stopovers out of a trip to Europe?"

You should have a travel agent work it out for you. The rough idea is that you can stop anywhere between your starting point and the farthest point you go. An air ticket to Rome lets you stop in 16 European capitals.

Now—ask your agent to figure it out something like this: Enter via Shannon and then to London. Make the northern swing of Scandinavia, Germany, Switzerland. From Rome—exit through Madrid and Lisbon.

Now—see if you can't go home through Puerto Rico, Jamaica and other Caribbean ports. If it costs anything, it will be very little. I'd guess something like $20.

Now—have your agent figure out best prices: Ask about 21-day excursion rates. Ask about family plan. There are so many combinations that the man in the next seat may be paying $100 more for the same flight. Because he didn't explore all these possibilities.

"Can you suggest any Mexican wines?"

I'd suggest you forget it. They have great beer. But the wine I wouldn't use for paint thinner.

Nearly 500,000 tourists visited famed Edinburgh Castle last year, making it the second most popular tourist spot in Britain.

Ancient Castle Tourist Magnet

By GORDON IRVING

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CNS)

—An edifice that dates back to the 11th century, and which harbors many a stirring historical tale, has just been named the most popular site for visitors to Scotland. The majestic complex is second only to the Tower of London in Britain's "top 10" of ancient monuments.

It is Edinburgh Castle, which towers over modern boulevards from a precipitous rock in the heart of the city.

HUNDRED THOUSANDS

Last year it drew 458,500 visitors.

"In age and appearance it is unique," a tourist spokesman told me here.

"Although the site was a fortress at the end of the 6th century, the first definite date that can be ascribed to the castle is 1093, when Margaret, queen of Malcolm Canmore, died. They built St. Margaret's Chapel, an interesting example of Norman architecture, on the rock."

TREMENDOUS INTEREST

"We find that tourists take a tremendous interest in the castle and spend hours going around its various buildings and museums."

"What's more, from the ramparts there is a breathtaking view over modern Edinburgh and Princess Street, right to the two Firth of Forth bridges and the Highland hills which begin beyond Fife.

The castle's massive defences housed royalty, the Scottish regalia, treasury and the national records.

In the crown chamber or jewel room you can see the honors of Scotland, which were presented to Queen Elizabeth in 1953 on her state visit here.

SCOTTISH CROWN

They include the Scottish crown, which was placed on the head of Mary Queen of Scots when she was nine months old.

The tourist and vacationer cannot miss the ancient cannon known familiarly as Mons Meg, 13 feet long, which was in use in grim and gory Scottish battles in the 15th and 16th centuries.

WAR MEMORIAL

One of the highlights of Edinburgh castle is the beautiful Scottish national war memorial. It pays tribute to all who died in the wars.

Edinburgh castle is a paradise for the camera enthusiast, and an accidental meeting-place for many from the same corner of the world.

This storybook castle-on-the-rock easily earns its reputation as a "top 10" tourist attraction.

Russians Chasing Tourist Dollars

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union—ever more eager to snag tourist money—has taken the first official step toward moving into the lucrative passenger ship traffic across the Atlantic to North America.

Negotiations have been concluded for a Leningrad-Montreal service to start in 1966 and if it proves a money-maker consideration will be given to extending the run to New York.

Russia's newest luxury liner, the 750-passenger Alexander Pushkin, will make the regular run with a crossing of 13 to 14 days.

The ship is under construction in East Germany and is expected to be completed by the end of this year.

FEWER PROBLEMS

The Russians have chosen to start with the run to Montreal because it lacks the political problems inherent in New York. The Alexander Pushkin is designed to carry 120 first class passengers, and provides a choice of cabins with one, two or three berths.

The 20-knot ship will be equipped with a large swimming pool, a restaurant seating about 300, five coffee bars, a movie theatre, and numerous salons.

The ship will be powered by twin screws whose diesel engines develop 10,500 horsepower each.

If experience on other popular Soviet passenger runs is any measure, the Russians are likely to lure passengers by offering low-priced fares and efficient service.

The present Soviet regular runs between Leningrad and Helsinki, Stockholm, Copenhagen, London and Le Havre offer prices 10 to 15 per cent lower than those of competing companies.

MAKING MONEY

Despite these low fares, officials here claim they are making money—and hard currency—from these sailings.

In fact, travel sources in Moscow say the Baltic-North Sea runs are so popular that they are already fully booked for the 1965 season even though six ships are sailing regularly.

Sir John Franklin

Curtain May Be Raised On Mystery of Arctic

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — A report from high in the Canadian Arctic has reopened the strange and terrible story of Sir John Franklin—a story that captured the imagination of a bygone, heroic age.

The fate of Franklin and his two ships, Terror and Erebus, was once enough to rock the British admiralty and cause handshakes as well as seafarers and explorers to argue with hot-eyed fury.

Some of the rescue schemes proposed in the 1850s were born of the wildest fantasy. One clairvoyant swore she saw and talked with Franklin—still alive—long after he had, in fact, been laid to rest at a site that has never been found.

Perhaps the most intriguing tale, backed by eye witnesses, told of two abandoned ships—could they be Terror and Erebus?—entrapped on an iceberg, ghosting through North Atlantic mists.

A romantic if pathetic aspect was the undying confidence of Lady Franklin that her husband would be found alive—and her ingenuity in pressing projects for his rescue.

The story of Franklin has never completely unfolded despite the efforts of scores of expeditions during more than 100 years but now, a report from Dr. E. F. Roes, Canadian Arctic explorer, gives hope of an exciting discovery.

Roots said in a message from the Arctic he was cautiously optimistic that the wreckage of one of Sir John's ships may be found under seven feet of ice and silt in the O'Reilly Island area, 1,800 miles northwest of Ottawa amid the vast territory to which Franklin gave his name.

Roots, of the Canadian department of mines and technical surveys, was encouraged by the results of a magnetometer survey undertaken in the hope of detecting the presence of a vanished ship.

Terror and Erebus said goodbye to the outside world when, on July 26, 1846, they parted from an Aberdeen whaler and sailed into Lancaster Sound, in Canada's far north, in search of the Northwest Passage.

The ships had left the Thames in May of the previous year with 129 officers and men, carefully chosen from the Royal Navy and the whaling fleet, for the great adventure.

These men were the last of bearing Britain and the dictionary of national biography.

which normally uses only prose language, noted: "Over their movements a dark curtain settled down which was raised slowly and with difficulty, nor was it fully lifted."

The fate of the expedition was to arouse a degree of concern, probably roughly comparable to what would happen today if a team of astronauts disappeared into the outer reaches of space.

There was little anxiety until late in 1847 when public stirrings began to reflect the growing private worry of Lady Franklin, who began a 10-year campaign to save her husband, selling her jewels and property to finance expeditions and shaming the admiralty into action at public expense.

The government eventually offered a reward of £20,000, a huge sum for that period, and in 1850 no less than 15 expeditions were operating at one time westward of Baffin Bay.

Author Stanley Hyland, in his Curiosities from Parliament, tells how pressures grew and the Franklin affair reached near hysterical proportions among the less stable elements of the population.

One man advised the admiralty to sprinkle gunpowder over the Arctic ice and put a match to it—that would find Franklin. Another suggested a fleet of ships should be linked together with chains to drag the Arctic Ocean for the missing vessels.

Balloons and kites were pressed on the admiralty for rescue operations and forged messages by the dozen were picked up in bottles and canisters around the coast, purporting to come from Franklin.

PLANS OFFERED "All this time, from the end of 1847 to the spring of 1853, the admiralty was being beset with volunteers who had secret plans which were guaranteed to succeed," says Hyland's account.

"Petitions were being delivered to Whitehall almost every week. The newspapers were rarely without references to the Franklin searches. Leading (editorial) writers were querulous and correspondents sarcastic."

One newspaper hinted that even Prince Albert, husband of Queen Victoria, was impressed by the powers of a clairvoyant named Emma who claimed that she "found" Franklin and talked to him amid the snowy wastes.

Franklin, she said, was praying at the time and this surprised her because it was a Tuesday, not Sunday. When Emma made this claim in October, 1848, Franklin had been dead nearly 2½ years.

The harassed admiralty learned in 1852 about two letters, written a year earlier, by a passenger and a seaman aboard the ship Renovation, headed for Quebec, telling of sighting an iceberg carrying two vessels in May, 1851.

Joseph Lynch, the passenger, wrote to his uncle in Limerick describing cathedral-like icebergs in a vivid way and adding:

"We met, or rather saw at a distance, one with two ships on it, which I am almost sure belonged to Franklin's exploring squadron, as from the latitude and longitude we met them in they were drifting from the direction of Davis' Straits."

An admiralty representative later interviewed Lynch at Prescott, Ont., and learned that he had distressing visions of Franklin's men dying while the Renovation sailed past.

Lynch was apparently the victim of an over-active imagination but some old London newspaper accounts have even more frightening accounts of the fate of Franklin's men, including slaughter by Eskimos.

The Arctic grudgingly yielded up fragmentary clues and, by 1851, it was reported that only 65 bodies had been accounted for, the bones found where the men dropped in a hopeless march after leaving the ice-encased ships.

Explorer Lockie T. Burwash, in a book published in Canada in 1931, says it appeared the men made the way back to the ships, refueled them and, in subsequent shipwrecks which occurred near O'Reilly Island and off Matty Island, northeast of King William Island.

A memorial to Franklin was erected in London's Waterloo Place, an inscription saying his body was consigned to the sea through a hole in the ice—a theory later attacked by one authority who insisted he must have been taken to land for burial, probably on Boothia Peninsula.

An expedition led by Capt. F. L. McClintock returned to England in 1859 after finding a canister at Point Victory with a message stating that Franklin died June 11, 1847. The message, written April 25, 1848, stated the survivors had deserted the ships which had been "beet" in the ice for 20 months.

What became of Erebus and Terror?

The admiralty, as well as interviewing Lynch, managed to make contact with other eye-witnesses of the iceberg with its strange cargo.

The admirals were unable to reach a conclusion on the identity of the mystery ships but they did establish one fact: No one aboard the Renovation, an unseaworthy old tub, had heard of the £20,000 reward for news of Franklin.

Stanley Hyland, summarizing the investigation, comments: "It is reasonable to assume, however, that most people outside the admiralty and some of them inside it, were convinced that the Erebus and Terror had been seen for three-quarters of an hour on that bleak and terrible morning in May, 1851."

Perhaps Roots is destined to find the real answer under the Arctic ice at O'Reilly Island.

Pearson Denies Preventing TV Flash on Rivard

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson "frankly denied any suggestion his government interfered to prevent a picture of jailbreaker Lucien Rivard being flashed over the Early Bird satellite television system last weekend."

"That is not a fact as far as I am concerned and I have no reason to think it is a fact in regard to any other member of the government," the prime minister told the Commons.

He made the statement after E. J. O. Woodhouse (P.C. Bow River) asked whether plans to show Rivard's picture over the satellite transmission system had been dropped "for interference by a cabinet minister or some other high government official."

Some Areas Slow On Centennial Plan

With less than two months until the deadline for the organization of local centennial committees in British Columbia, there are still at least 17 communities in the province that have not yet submitted the names of their committee officers to the provincial centennial committee.

General chairman L. J. Wallace reported that all municipalities have now set up centennial groups, and the areas not yet heard from are all in unorganized territory.

ALREADY SET

So far there have been 337 committees established, and the Victoria headquarters estimates that there are at least 330 groups who can qualify.

Closing date for organizing local committees, Mr. Wallace pointed out, is June 30. To qualify, a community must, before that time, organize a centennial group and report the names and addresses of the officers to the Victoria office. On receipt of this information the provincial office will forward details on the planning of celebrations and projects for the centennial years and the provincial and federal grants available for these purposes.

CONSULTANTS HELP

Mr. Wallace said the regional consultants of the community programs branch throughout B.C. are assisting in the formation of local centennial groups and are available to assist any community in setting up an organization. Additional information and assistance are available from the Canadian Confederation Centennial Committee of British Columbia at the legislative buildings in Victoria.

Youth Fined After Fight With Policeman

A youth said to have bitten an Oak Bay constable's leg and given him a bloody nose escaped conviction Friday on a charge of assaulting a policeman but was found guilty on a lesser charge of assault.

Magistrate William Ostler said in Oak Bay court he thought 19-year-old Kenneth Gordon Leveridge was too drunk early last March 20 to know he was attacking a policeman.

Leveridge, of 1341 Haultain, had pleaded not guilty to the charge at an earlier hearing. The charge was laid after Cpl. Charles Bates and Const. Robert Faith of Oak Bay police stopped a car on Transit Road that was being driven by a friend of Leveridge.

NOT ESTABLISHED
The officers found Leveridge on the front seat apparently unconscious, according to testimony. In a manner that had not been clearly established, the magistrate said, Leveridge left the car and fell face down on the ground.

It was while lying on the ground that Leveridge bit Const. Faith, an action described by the magistrate as "more the conduct of a surly animal than a human being."

Const. Faith and Cpl. Bates hauled Leveridge to his feet. Leveridge wrenched an arm loose and punched Const. Faith in the face.

'FUTILITY'
The magistrate said the two officers had been doing their duty in stopping the car, which was being driven aimlessly, but he described their efforts to obtain identification from Leveridge while he was on the ground as "an exercise in futility."

Intoxication was no defence for assaulting a policeman, the magistrate said, unless the accused was in such a condition that he did not know he was dealing with police.

In Leveridge's case, there was reasonable doubt that the youth knew who Const. Faith and Cpl. Bates were.

ASSAULT ONLY
He was therefore convicting Leveridge of assault only, the magistrate said.

He fined the youth $100 and warned him to steer clear of alcohol.

In another Oak Bay case, sentence was passed on an 18-year-old youth convicted at an earlier hearing of careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Defendant Norman Abbott, 1238 Oliver, had pleaded not guilty.

Abbott was charged after he struck a parked car on Hampshire Road March 8. He said the accident occurred after he swerved to avoid a car that was backing on to the road.

When interviewed later by police who said they were investigating a hit-and-run case, Abbott told them his car had struck a pole.

Commenting Friday on the youth's pre-sentence report, Magistrate Ostler said Abbott had an astute mind that he had used to try to excuse himself in the affair.

"He has done everything to avoid admitting the offence," the magistrate said.

On the charge of failing to remain, Abbott was bound over to be of good behavior for six months and forbidden to drive anywhere in Canada for that period. On the careless driving charge, he was fined $40.

In an Oak Bay liquor case, Magistrate Ostler noted that the law still demands immediate payment of fines when persons are convicted of consuming liquor in a public place or of supplying liquor to minors.

He was correcting a statement he made last week when he said he thought the B.C. legislature had recently amended the law to allow time to pay such fines.

Fined $50 Friday for consuming liquor in public and $50 for supplying liquor to a minor was Roy Alexander McLaren, 568 Baker, who had pleaded guilty on both counts.

A $50 payment also was required from Michael Anthony Ullock, 3907 Stockton, who had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to consuming liquor in public.

A charge of supplying liquor to a minor, to which Ullock had pleaded not guilty, was withdrawn by Crown for lack of evidence.

For the same reason, Crown withdrew a charge against Carol Frances Bond, 3907 Stockton, of being a minor in possession of liquor. She had pleaded not guilty at an earlier hearing.

Donald Alfred Graber, 1970 Fort, convicted at an earlier hearing of impairment, was fined $350. He also was restricted to business driving only for four months.

In city court, Dennis Tinnion, HMCS Ste. Therese, was sentenced for car theft, careless driving and having no licence.

Tinnion had pleaded not guilty to the theft charge at an earlier hearing, but guilty to the traffic offences.

At Tinnion's trial, prosecution said that early April 18, Easter Sunday, he had stolen an almost-new U-Drive car owned by a taxi company in downtown Victoria and driven it as far as Mill Bay, where it skidded off the highway and ended up a total wreck.

Magistrate Ostler said Friday Tinnion's pre-sentence report was highly unsatisfactory and it was not a case for probation.

For care theft, he sentenced Tinnion to four months definite, eight months indefinite, in the young offenders' unit, and to 10 days and five days, non-concurrent, for the respective careless driving and no licence charges.

Robert Webster, 428 Vancouver, who had pleaded guilty Thursday to stealing a carton of cigarettes from a downtown store, was fined $75 and bound over for six months.

Defence counsel Robert Price argued before sentence that it was a first offence committed under the influence of alcohol.

The magistrate warned Webster he would ruin his life if he did not control his drinking.

In another shoplifting case, the magistrate said the defendant suffered from a "curious malady that could be called 'record mania.'"

He was addressing his remarks to John Condon, 1354 Harrison, who pleaded guilty last week to theft over $50.

On the afternoon of April 12, Condon was in a downtown store, where he put 16 long-playing records valued at $72 into a cardboard carton and left without paying for them.

The magistrate said Condon's obsession with record-collecting had brought him into court after executing a calculated plan to steal the records.

Condon, who had been remanded in custody after his plea last week, told the magistrate: "After spending the last nine days where I did I can realize the truth of the saying: 'The punishment outweighs the crime.'"

He was given a one-year suspended sentence.

Traffic Fines

OAK BAY

Sally Anne Downard, 2015 Kendal, speeding, $50.

Alexander Kinghorn, Chilliwack, speeding, $50.

Leslie Donaldson, 321 Michigan, speeding, $20.

Keith Owen, 1570 Arrow, uninsured motor, $25.

Diana Tate, 713 Mountjoy, careless driving, $45.

Richard Hains, 4344 Van-treight, failing to yield, $40.

On the charge of failing to remain, Abbott was bound over to be of good behavior for six months and forbidden to drive anywhere in Canada for that period. On the careless driving charge, he was fined $40.

In an Oak Bay liquor case, Magistrate Ostler noted that the law still demands immediate payment of fines when persons are convicted of consuming liquor in a public place or of supplying liquor to minors.

He was correcting a statement he made last week when he said he thought the B.C. legislature had recently amended the law to allow time to pay such fines.

Fined $50 Friday for consuming liquor in public and $50 for supplying liquor to a minor was Roy Alexander McLaren, 568 Baker, who had pleaded guilty on both counts.

A $50 payment also was required from Michael Anthony Ullock, 3907 Stockton, who had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to consuming liquor in public.

A charge of supplying liquor to a minor, to which Ullock had pleaded not guilty, was withdrawn by Crown for lack of evidence.

For the same reason, Crown withdrew a charge against Carol Frances Bond, 3907 Stockton, of being a minor in possession of liquor. She had pleaded not guilty at an earlier hearing.

Donald Alfred Graber, 1970 Fort, convicted at an earlier hearing of impairment, was fined $350. He also was restricted to business driving only for four months.

In city court, Dennis Tinnion, HMCS Ste. Therese, was sentenced for car theft, careless driving and having no licence.

Tinnion had pleaded not guilty to the theft charge at an earlier hearing, but guilty to the traffic offences.

At Tinnion's trial, prosecution said that early April 18, Easter Sunday, he had stolen an almost-new U-Drive car owned by a taxi company in downtown Victoria and driven it as far as Mill Bay, where it skidded off the highway and ended up a total wreck.

Magistrate Ostler said Friday Tinnion's pre-sentence report was highly unsatisfactory and it was not a case for probation.

On Fog-Blanketed Great Lakes

Ten Dead in Ship Collision

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (UPI)—Two freighters collided in dense fog in the "crossroads of the Great Lakes" at the Straits of Mackinac Friday, sinking one of the ships within minutes, and leaving 10 men dead or missing.

Three bodies were recovered. Seven others listed as missing were believed to have gone down with the ship.

Twenty-five crewmen from the sunken limestone freighter Cedarville were pulled from the water by a German vessel that was close to the scene, four of them suffering slight injuries. The other vessel, the Norwegian grain ship Topdalsfjord, lumped safely to port. The Cedarville was operated by the Bradley Transportation Co., a division of U.S. Steel.

All of the rescued crewmen and the bodies of the known dead were brought to the old state ferry dock here aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw. They had been transferred to the Mackinaw from the German merchantman Weisenberg, which had pulled them from the choppy waters of the straits.

Liuzzo Murder Trial Deadlocked

Didn't Accept Testimony Say Hung-Jury Holdouts

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A young Ku Klux Klansman's murder trial in the night-riding slaying of a white woman civil rights demonstrator ended Friday with a jury deadlocked 10-2 for conviction.

In Hospital

Suffering an undisclosed ailment but in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital is Sebastian Cabot, well-known television personality who lives at Sidney between film and TV assignments.

The jury of white men was discharged when it reported its inability to reach a verdict at the end of a five-day trial.

The hung jury left undecided the fate of 21-year-old Collie Leroy Wilkins, accused of the March 25 shooting of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, 38, a Detroit mother of five.

TO SEEK RETRIAL
In Montgomery, Alabama Attorney-General Richmond Flowers said the state will seek Wilkins' retrial in the September court term.

The star state witness was Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., 34, who testified that he joined the Klan five years ago as an FBI informer.

Rowe said he rode with the three defendants on the March 25 slaying that ended in Mrs. Liuzzo's slaying.

BOUGHT ACQUITTAL
One of the two jurors who held out against conviction, Billy B. Cheatham, a bookkeeper, said of his reasons for voting acquittal:

"I didn't accept his (Rowe's) testimony."
The other holdout, Dan Lee, a mechanic, told reporters, referring to Cheatham:

"Me and him pretty well are on the same side."

Rhodesian Sweep For Smith

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Ian Smith won the two-thirds majority he wanted in the Rhodesian general election Friday.

His government candidates swept all 50 seats on the mostly white "A" roll of seats, assuring his Rhodesian Front a two-thirds majority in the 63-seat Parliament.

The election results appeared to strengthen Smith's hand greatly in his demand for independence for the British colony.

All but a few of the colony's 4,000,000 Negroes boycotted the election.

David Butler, the 38-year-old leader of the opposition Rhodesia Party, was among the defeated.

Martin

Back-Door Parley Unlikely

PARIS—External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada said Friday he thinks chances of a back-door international conference on Viet Nam, by means of a conference on Cambodia are washed up.

He said at a press conference that this may lead some nations to take up his original proposal for a conference on Laos as a means of opening talks on Viet Nam.

TALES REJECTED
He added, however, that neither Communist North Viet Nam nor China has accepted any proposal so far for negotiation.

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist guerrillas launched their biggest attack of the year Thursday night, hitting a Catholic refugee camp run by "fighting priest" Father Nguyen Leo Hoa. Officially said Friday the toll was 41 dead, 77 wounded, and 30 missing.

In the air war, 65 U.S. air force jets bombed the Thanh Hoa highway and railroad bridge, 70 miles south of Hanoi. One jet was shot down as pilots reported "extremely heavy and accurate" anti-aircraft fire over the target. Fifty-six other air force planes bombed two small bridges and three barracks buildings.

In Saigon a five-member military tribunal imposed death sentences on two ranking South Vietnamese army officers who led an attempted coup d'etat Feb. 19.

Both Brig. Gen. Lam Phat and Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, who are in hiding, were tried in absentia.

LBJ, France Heating Up

PARIS (Reuters)—French officials attributed the strong criticism of French foreign policy implied in President Johnson's trans-Atlantic television broadcast Friday night to possible recognition by Paris of the provisional Dominican government headed by Col.

Battle of Atlantic

The president's broadcast was regarded by French officials as the most direct and severe criticism of President de Gaulle's foreign policy ever expressed in the United States.

One official said the idea of uniting Europe without French participation, which seemed to be proposed by President Johnson, was impractical. He said there would be no united Europe without France.

U.S. policy in both the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam sparked a protest demonstration by about 1,000 students in the Left Bank quarter of Paris Friday night.

Organized by the French Communist Students Union, the demonstrators clashed with a group of right-wing youths before being dispersed.

Loyalists Field New Team

SHUFFLE AT TOP

SANTO DOMINGO (CP)—The three-man Dominican military junta opposed to the rebel regime of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno resigned Friday night in what appeared to be a bid for popular support by anti-rebel forces.

The triumvirate gave way to a new civilian-military junta of five men calling itself a "government of national reconstruction." It is headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the military officers opposing Caamano's rebels.

Imbert quickly called a press conference and urged a peace effort to rebuild the country and national unity "regardless of political affiliation."

OTHER MEMBERS
The other members of the new junta are included Julio Pospigo, 61, a lawyer; Carlos Grisolia Polanco, 51, a provincial governor under the deposed government of Donald Reid Cabral; Alejandro Zeller Cuza, 41, an engineer, and Col. Pedro B. Benoit, a holdover from the resigned three-man junta.

Imbert did not explain how or why the resignation of the former three-man junta came about or how the new group was formed.

The rebel radio promptly attacked the new junta.

NOT CONSULTED
The surprise move came as Caamano asserted his forces spoke for the Dominican Republic as its legitimate government. Caamano told a press conference he had not been consulted about bringing an inter-American police force to Santo

ADLAI STILL 'ROPED'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council for a second time Friday postponed a vote on Russia's resolution to condemn American intervention in the Dominican Republic and demand withdrawal of the U.S. forces.

Soviet delegate Nikolai Fedorenko, who continued a running battle of words with Adlai Stevenson of the U.S. through Friday's meeting, said he didn't object to the delay since it would leave Stevenson "with the rope around his neck a little longer."

Venezuelans: We'll Join

CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuelan Defense Minister Ramon Florencio Gomez announced Venezuela will send infantry marines to the Dominican Republic to be part of the Dominican inter-American force.

Meanwhile, terrorists in Caracas sprayed a U.S.-owned supermarket with machinegun fire from a speeding car in a continuation of hit-run protests against U.S. policy.

Mexicans: We Won't

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Mexico will refuse to join in a Latin American peace force operation in the Dominican Republic and will ask the United States to withdraw its troops from the island, the foreign ministry said Friday.

Pearson on Election: I Don't Know When

MONTREAL (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night his government is moving ahead "but the next steps may lead to a general election."

He told the Quebec branch of the Liberal Federation of Canada:

"The date for that new and decisive stage, I can't reveal, because I don't know."

Minority status means the opposition can combine at any time and put the government out of office, he said.

Mr. Pearson paid tribute to his Quebec colleagues.

"I tell you tonight that I believe in the integrity and the honor and the patriotism of my cabinet colleagues from Quebec."

Here's New Split: Pravda vs Izvestia

LONDON (AP)—A British expert on Communist affairs today reported signs of a split between Soviet Party chieftains Brezhnev and Premier Kossygin.

Victor Zorin, writing in The Guardian, said the split concerns military policy, and the issue is whether Soviet rocket power has made large ground forces unnecessary.

He cited as evidence a passage in the party newspaper Pravda denouncing any suggestion that rocket weapons had taken precedence of ground troops. This suggestion, he said, had been promoted by Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper.

Zorin added: "Pravda would not normally bother to publish an attack on Izvestia on this kind of issue unless it had reason to believe the paper was following a line laid down by officials more important than Izvestia's editor."

To Fill Vacuum

New Junta Sworn In

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—A five-man "national government of reconstruction" was sworn in late Friday, in an attempt to end a two-week-old political vacuum that led to a Communist-infiltrated revolution.

There was no immediate word on whether the new five-man government, headed by General Atanlio Imbert Barrera, is acceptable to rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamaño.

Population Of B.C. Leads Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population reached 19,516,000 at April 1, an increase of 342,000 or 1.8 per cent in the previous 12 months, the bureau of statistics reported Friday.

British Columbia had the fastest growing rate, its population increasing by 3 per cent or 52,000 to 1,782,000.

Ontario's population climbed by 2.1 per cent or 140,000 to 6,702,000 while Quebec's rose by 1.7 per cent or 97,000 to 5,645,000, the bureau estimated.

Twister Death Toll 13

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—The death toll mounted to 13 Friday as workers poked through the rubble of hundreds of homes shattered by tornadoes that slashed through a dozen Minneapolis suburbs.

More than 400 persons were injured by the vicious, twisting winds Thursday night, and authorities said damage ran into the millions of dollars.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag asked President Johnson to declare the debris-strewn communities, including fashionable suburbs on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, a disaster area.

The Small Business Administration in Washington promptly gave disaster designation to all sections of Minnesota suffering losses from twisters.

Two bodies were found in Mounds View Friday. Officials feared more might turn up.

Another covey of tornadoes swept a 100-mile stretch of western Oklahoma Thursday night.

The victims of Thursday night's storm ranged from a three-month-old baby, whose body was found in a street, to an 84-year-old woman.

In 30 minutes of horror, men and women were sucked from their homes and hurled into yards and streets. Expensive homes were reduced to kindling wood. Cars were tossed about like tennis balls.

HALIFAX (CP)—Rear Admiral William M. Landymore, flag officer Atlantic Coast, said Thursday night naval personnel—including divers—may use their spare time or leave in any way they wish.

The admiral was commenting on a charge by commercial divers here that "moonlighting" navy divers using navy equipment are taking jobs from civilian under-water workers.

Money Voted For Tourism

COURTENAY — "Several" down-island communities were criticized Thursday night when the Courtenay-Cornwall Chamber of Commerce voted to pay its $600 assessment to the Island Publicity Bureau for this year.

Chamber members noted "several" other communities failed to make any contribution last year, but did not name any centres. They expressed the hope Chambers would be more co-operative in paying 1965 assessments.

The Chamber also took action on complaints of excess tolls charged commercial vehicles on the network of logging roads north of Campbell River and on the Buttle Lake-Beaver Cove link.

Letters will be written to the companies involved asking that vehicles involved in emergency repair work be allowed toll-free access where delays would hold up a work crew.

OPEN MAY 21

The Chamber learned a painting by local artist Reginald Barnard was the winner among 21 entries in a contest to find a suitable painting for the new ferry, Comox Queen.

Officials also announced the Courtenay tourist bureau will open May 21 for the holiday weekend and is expected to remain open until the Labor Day weekend.

Tourist counsellors will be Jane MacAuley and Merle Stewart, who will visit the Victoria bureau to learn more about the operation of such centres.

Ferries Man:

'Can't Sell Ride'

COURTENAY — "You can't sell people the idea of travelling 1,500 miles for a ferry ride," says B.C. government ferries representative Ed Norman.

"We have to sell the area that our ferries serve."

He was addressing the B.C. Hotel and Resort Owners Association, meeting in the Courtenay tourist bureau.

Mr. Norman told the accommodation experts their assistance, and brochures advertising their resorts, are needed to help sell the island.

SMOG TROUBLE

He told of the troubles of the millions in Los Angeles with freeways, smog and water which is treated and retreated.

"Millions will travel this far just for sun, fresh air and water," he said. "We just have to tell them how to get here."

Mr. Norman said brochures are needed early in January for such events as the Los Angeles sportsman's meeting.

He said two large island communities this year failed to send even one brochure to this big event.

For Alberni Valley Lumber

New Freighter Calls

By MARGARET TREBETT

PORT ALBERNI—Another of the massive new vessels which have little resemblance to the tramp freighters of yesteryear called here this week, early in a career which will take her over the world's routes of commerce.

Trustees Study

Delegates from the Greater Victoria, Saanich and Sooke school districts are attending a four-day short course for school trustees at University of B.C.'s St. Marks College, Vancouver, this week.

The MyBelita, still on her maiden voyage, arrived in ballast from Japan to load 5,000,000 board feet of Alberni Valley lumber for the U.S. eastern seaboard.

Berthed at the assembly dock, the Danish-built Norwegian-owned ship was the scene of a reception when Capt. O. Mello met representatives of the Twin Cities, local industry and the harbor commission.

Commissioner Denis O'Brien gave the captain an Indian sweater and a certificate commemorating the occasion, while Norwegian consul Jack Ellis extended good wishes to the ship and her crew.

AT CASABLANCA

Harbormaster Captain Don Brooks acted as master of ceremonies for the brief formalities. A smorgasbord followed.

The Belita was built by B & W of Copenhagen for the Redcar Roe firm of Tonsberg, Norway. Before arriving on the west coast, she called at Casablanca in Spanish Morocco, refueled at Aden and went via the Suez Canal to Japan.

After discharging her lumber cargo on the U.S. Atlantic coast, she will load phosphates in Florida for the Japanese market.

Her cargo capacity is approximately 15,000 tons and her huge 7,200-horsepower diesel engine moves the 500-foot ship at a cruising speed of 14.7 knots.

Martin Will Open Retarded Centre

NANAIMO — This city's new occupational centre for retarded people over 18 years of age will be opened officially at 2 p.m. next Saturday by Health Minister Martin.

The Nanaimo Association for Retarded Children began planning for the centre in 1961 and had enough money to start construction by January of 1963.

The provincial government paid one-third of the cost. Financial aid also came from the Williamson Foundation and the

Port Alberni

Skilled Labor Shortage Acute

PORT ALBERNI — The number of jobless men in the Alberni Valley is the lowest since 1955-56, manager J. A. Gunn-Fowle of the National Employment Service office said Friday.

He said the shortage of skilled tradesmen in the area reached an advanced stage in April and predicted it will become acute by midsummer.

Mr. Gunn-Fowle, who specifically noted shortages of construction, maintenance and service tradesmen, said the 374 unemployed male workers made up the lowest total since the initial major expansion of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River's pulp and paper division in 1955-56.

BUILDING UP

He said this situation "has been building up since 1962, when the Canadian economy began to shake off the effects of a four-year recession."

"As the economy improved, business confidence rose and increasing capital investment across the country produced a rapidly growing construction and employment boom."

IMMENSE PROJECTS

"Immense projects like the Peace and Columbia power developments have given long-term employment to thousands of construction tradesmen across the nation, absorbing them more rapidly than new tradesmen can be trained."

In addition, Mr. Gunn-Fowle explained, the resulting construction projects have rapidly multiplied permanent job opportunities for operating, maintenance and service personnel.

SHORTAGE EVERYWHERE

"The shortages which we are now experiencing in this local area are being repeated all over B.C. and throughout most of Canada today. We expect them to become acute by midsummer."

He said the 374 jobless men at April 30 compared with 415 at the end of March and 608 at the same time last year.

There were 220 women registered at his office and shortages were also apparent in the field of women's work, especially among restaurant trades, hairdressers and domestic help.

Harbormaster Captain Don Brooks acted as master of ceremonies for the brief formalities. A smorgasbord followed.

The Belita was built by B & W of Copenhagen for the Roder Røe firm of Tonsberg, Norway. Before arriving on the west coast, she called at Casablanca in Spanish Morocco, refueled at Aden and went via the Suez Canal to Japan.

After discharging her lumber cargo on the U.S. Atlantic coast, she will load phosphates in Florida for the Japanese market.

Her cargo capacity is approximately 15,000 tons and her huge 7,200-horsepower diesel engine moves the 500-foot ship at a cruising speed of 14.7 knots.

On Fog-Blanketed Great Lakes

Ten Dead in Ship Collision

MACKINAW CITY, Mich. (UPI)—Two freighters collided in dense fog in the "crossroads of the Great Lakes" at the Straits of Mackinac Friday, sinking one of the ships within minutes, and leaving 10 men dead or missing.

Three bodies were recovered. Seven others listed as missing were believed to have gone down with the ship. Twenty-five crewmen from the sunken limestone freighter Cedarville were pulled from the water by a German vessel that was close to the scene. Four of them suffering slight injuries. The other vessel, the Norwegian grain ship Tordalsfjord, limped safely to port. The Cedarville was operated by the Bradley Transportation Co., a division of U.S. Steel.

All of the rescued crewmen and the bodies of the known dead were brought to the old state ferry dock here aboard the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw. They had been transferred to the Mackinaw from the German merchantman Weissenberg, which had pulled them from the choppy waters of the straits.

Liuzzo Murder Trial Deadlocked

Didn't Accept Testimony Say Hung-Jury Holdouts

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A young Ku Klux Klan member's murder trial in the night-killer slaying of a white woman civil rights demonstrator ended Friday with a jury deadlocked 10-2 for conviction.

In Hospital

Suffering an undisclosed ailment but in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria, a well-known television personality who lives at Sidney between film and TV assignments.

The jury of white men was discharged when it reported its inability to reach a verdict at the end of a five-day trial.

The hung jury left undecided the fate of 21-year-old Collier Leroy Wilkins, accused of the March 25 shooting of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, 39, a Detroit mother of five.

TO SEEK RETRIAL. In Montgomery, Alabama Attorney General Richard Flowers said the state will seek Wilkins' retrial in the September court term.

The star state witness was Gary Thomas Rowe Jr., 34, who testified that he joined the Klan five years ago as an FBI informer.

Rowe said he rode with the three defendants on the March 25 foray that ended in Mrs. Liuzzo's slaying.

BOUGHT ACQUITTAL. One of the two jurors who held out against conviction, Billy R. Chambliss, a bookkeeper, said of his reasons for buying acquittal:

"I don't accept his (Rowe's) testimony."

The other holdout, Dan Lee, a mechanic, told reporters, referring to Chambliss:

"Me and him pretty well are on the same side."

Rhodesian Sweep For Smith

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Prime Minister Ian Smith won the two-thirds majority he wanted in the Rhodesian general election Friday.

His government candidates swept all 93 seats on the mostly white "A" roll of seats, assuring his Rhodesian Front a two-thirds majority in the 65-seat Parliament.

The election results appeared to strengthen Smith's hand greatly in his demand for independence for the British colony.

All but a few of the colony's 4,000,000 Negroes boycotted the election.

David Butler, the 28-year-old leader of the opposition Rhodesian Party, was among the defeated.

Back-Door Parley Unlikely

PARIS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin of Canada said Friday he thinks chances of a backdoor international conference on Viet Nam by means of a conference on Cambodia are washed up.

He said at a press conference that this may lead some nations to take up his original proposal for a conference on Laos as a means of opening talks on Viet Nam.

TALES REJECTED. He added, however, that neither Communist North Viet Nam nor China has accepted any proposal so far for negotiation.

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist guerrillas launched their biggest attack of the year Thursday night, hitting a Catholic refugee camp run by "fighting priest" Father Nguyen Loc Hoa. Officials said Friday the toll was 48 dead, 77 wounded, and 20 missing.

In the air war, 65 U.S. air forces jets bombed the Thanh Hoa highway and railroad bridge, 70 miles south of Hanoi. One jet was shot down as pilots reported "extremely heavy and accurate" anti-aircraft fire over the target. Fifty-six other air force planes bombed two small bridges and three barracks buildings.

In Saigon a five-member military tribunal imposed death sentences on two ranking South Vietnamese army officers who led an attempted coup d'etat Feb. 19.

Both Brig.-Gen. Lam Phat and Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, who are in hiding, were tried in absentia.

LBJ, France Heating Up

PARIS (Reuters)—French officials attributed the strong criticism of French foreign policy implied in President Johnson's transatlantic television broadcast Friday night to possible recognition by Paris of the provisional Dominican government headed by Col.

Battle of Atlantic

Francisco Caamano Deno. (See Page 5.) The president's broadcast was regarded by French officials as the most direct and severe criticism of President de Gaulle's foreign policy ever expressed in the United States.

One official said the idea of uniting Europe without French participation, which seemed to be proposed by President Johnson, was impractical. He said there would be no united Europe without France.

U.S. policy in both the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam sparked a protest demonstration by about 1,000 students in the Left Bank quarter of Paris Friday night.

Organized by the French Communist Students Union, the demonstrators clashed with a group of right-wing youths before being dispersed.

LOYALISTS MAKE SHUFFLE AT TOP

SANTO DOMINGO (CP)—The three-man Dominican military junta opposed to the rebel regime of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno resigned Friday night in what appeared to be a bid for popular support by anti-rebel forces.

The triumvirate gave way to a new civilian-military junta of five men calling itself a "government of national reconstruction." It is headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the military officers opposing Caamano's revolt.

Imbert quickly called a press conference and urged a peace effort to rebuild the country and national unity "regardless of political affiliation."

OTHER MEMBERS

The other members of the new junta are included: Julio Pospisil, 61, a lawyer; Carlos Grisolia Polanco, 51, a provincial governor under the deposed government of Donald Reid Cabral; Alejandro Zeller Cuea, 41, an engineer, and Col. Pedro B. Benoit, a holdover from the resigned three-man junta.

Imbert did not explain how or why the resignation of the former three-man junta came about or how the new group was formed.

The rebel radio promptly attacked the new junta.

NOT CONSULTED

The surprise move came as Caamano asserted his forces spoke for the Dominican Republic as its legitimate government. Caamano told a press conference he had not been consulted about bringing an inter-American police force to Santo

ADLAI STILL 'ROPED'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council for a second time Friday postponed a vote on Russia's resolution to condemn American intervention in the Dominican Republic and demand withdrawal of the U.S. forces.

Soviet delegate Nikolai Fedorenko, who continued a running battle of words with Adlai Stevenson of the U.S. through Friday's meeting, said he didn't object to the delay since it would leave Stevenson "with the rope around his neck a little longer."

Venezuelans: We'll Join

CARACAS (UPI)—Venezuelan Defense Minister Ramon Moresco Gomez announced Venezuela will send infantry marines to the Dominican Republic to be part of the Dominican inter-American force.

Meanwhile, terrorists in Caracas sprayed a U.S.-owned supermarket with machinegun fire from a speeding car in a continuation of hit-run protests against U.S. policy.

Mexicans: We Won't

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Mexico will refuse to join in a Latin American peace force operation in the Dominican Republic and will ask the United States to withdraw its troops from the island, the foreign ministry said Friday.

Braves Hail of Bullets

Vancouver Man Dominican Hero

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says in a dispatch from Santo Domingo that George Edward Lynch, a 33-year-old Vancouver telephone engineer, dashed through a hail of bullets to rescue a dying U.S. marine.

The story by Gordon Donaldson said Mr. Lynch, in the Dominican Republic since 1958 working for the local telephone owned by B.C. Telephone, was caught in a clash between rebels and marines.

The dispatch says three marines were killed, two wounded and two taken prisoner by the rebels. Lynch was trying to restore broken phone lines when a U.S. jeep and truck, sent to pick up medical supplies, strayed from the guarded corridor across the city into an ambush.

Mr. Donaldson quoted Lynch as saying: "There was a terrific noise and I got down against a wall away from the window. Then I went out into the street where I saw a lot of soldiers and armed civilians. They did not harm me because I was a civilian."

After finding one boy, about 15, dead with a gaping wound in his neck, he went to another boy on a driveway with a bad wound in his back.

"I couldn't find any pulse, but I opened his shirt and found his heart still beating," he said.

Lynch picked the marine up on his shoulder and carried him around the building into a parking lot and put him on one of the phone company trucks.

"Then I got a Dominican driver to rush him out of the rebel zone to marine headquarters at the El Embajador Hotel."

The story said the marine was dead on arrival.

Lynch is about the last Canadian left in Santo Domingo to try to get the shaky service going from its exchange in the very centre of rebel territory. The Telegram says.

Pearson on Election: I Don't Know When

MONTREAL (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday night his government is moving ahead "but the next steps may lead to a general election."

He told the Quebec branch of the Liberal Federation of Canada:

"The date for that new and decisive stage, I can't reveal, because I don't know."

Minority status means the opposition can combine at any time and put the government out of office, he said.

"They breathe fire and slaughter and threaten our union every day, but when the test of voting comes, the Tories make sure that they lose it and thereby avoid a bigger loss," he said.

Mr. Pearson paid tribute to his Quebec colleagues.

"I tell you tonight that I believe in the integrity and the honour and the patriotism of my cabinet colleagues from Quebec."
